Blast Kills Four, Reveals Liquor Plant

BODIES FOUND IN BUILDING OF TOLEDO FIRM

Evidence After Explosion Discloses Distillery Run Under Guise of Factory.

SECTION OF CITY SHAKEN

Persons Living Nearby Hurled from Beds by Violence of Blast.

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 22 -- An explosion in the building occupied by the Carl J. Weber Manufacturing company early today caused the death of four men.

Although the company was listed as a manufacturer of boiler compounds and iron preservatives, firemen said they found evidence of a large distilling layout, and Coroner Frank G. Krefts expressed the opinion that the place was a large alcohol cutting plant.

Two large stills, two 550-gallon tanks and an assortment of copper tanks and tubing were found in the place. Firemen also found several hundred one-gallon cans, some of which still contained alcohol.

One of the victims was identified by his brother as William Siegal of Detroit. The others were not immediately identified.

Police Sergent Albert Bernhagen found a 100-pound sack of brown sugar in the debris. The office files contained a telegram relating to the purchase of sugar. There also was correspondence from a Cleveland can company relative to the purchase of sealed cans with special opening for hose nozzles and with a Toledo firm relative to the purchase of the 550-gallon tanks.

Miss Ella Lanahan, 23 who lives near the plant, was hurled from her bed by the blast. She ran in her night clothing to a fire box and turned in an alarm.

Persons in other residences nearby were hurled from their beds.

An explosion of a still caused the fire, Richard Lawler, district fire chief said.

Identification of those killed in the blast was difficult, owing to the condition of the bodies.

A resident of the vicinity said that at midnight, 20 minutes before the blast, he saw a large automobile pull up in front of the factory. Two men went in a rear door, stayed only a few minutes and departed.

The building is owned by John A. Freeborn, who said he did not know the name of the tenants as the building was leased by his attorney.

HYDE DELVING INTO SOVIET GRAIN DEALS

Seeks First-Hand Information on Chicago Board of Trade.

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—Secretary of Agriculture Arthur H. Hyde was enroute to the middle west today and is understood to be planning a first-hand investigation of his charges that the Soviet government has been contributing to depression of the wheat market by heavy short selling on the Chicago board of trade.

Widening of the inquiry was decided upon by Hyde after learning from officials of the All-Russian Textile syndicate that their market activities had extended over several months. Hyde said his investigation had covered only a fortnight. The Russian syndicate is a subsidiary of the Amtorg Trading corporation, the Soviet commercial agency in this country.

Hyde is expected to spend several days in Chicago after a short stay at Ann Arbor, Mich., where his daughter, Caroline, will matriculate at the University of Michigan.

SUMMER NEAR END

Tomorrow First Day of Fall, "Astronomically Speaking."

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 22—Summer officially ends today and early tomorrow morning fall will begin. But that doesn't mean there will be no more summer-like weather. It merely means that fall begins astronomically speaking.

Tuesday will mark the beginning of the autumnal equinox which, according to the science of astronomy, records the seasonal change in weather conditions. Teh vernal equinox, which occurs in March, officially ushers in spring.

ARREST AMERICANS IN REVOLUTION PLOT

Two Yankee Aviators Accused of Aiding Chilean Rebels; Scheme Thwarted, Is Report.

By The Associated Press

BUENOS AIRES, ARGENTINA, Sept. 22—Two American aviators whose names were given as Michelsen, pilot, and Morrison, mechanic, were arrested with two exiled Chilean generals and three civilians when they landed an airplane at a point near Concepcion yesterday The Chilean authorities, according to advices reaching this city, said the five Chileans had attempted to promote a revolution but had not succeeded.

The Chilean government issued a lenghty communique which said an attempted revolt yesterday against the administration of President Colonel Carlos Ibanez had been frustrated and the instigators imprisoned.

The Chileans arrested were General Pedro Enrique Bravos, Colonel Maroduke Grove, Luis Salas Nomo, Carlos Vicuna and Pedro Leon Ugalde.

At the same time, serious unrest was reported in Uruguay and Ecuador. At Montevideo, capital of the former country, complete cessation of business for a period of 48 hours was ordered by the economic vigilance committee as a protest against payment of further taxes for the old age retirement and pensions funds. Business leaders charged deficits of $250,000,000 existed in these funds, although the taxes had been paid regularly.

In Ecuador, a revolutionary movement among the military was reported afoot.

FINAL MURDER TRIAL STARTS

Motion for Change in Venue Overruled by Judge in Bucyrus Court.

SEVEN JURORS SEATED

Earl Sites, Alleged Pal of Massa and McCartney, Starts Battle.

Special To The Star

COURTHOUSE, BUCYRUS, O., Sept. 22—The question of life and death hovered over the Crawford county courthouse here today as Earl Sites, the third and last indicted in the shooting of Ralph Wilcox during an attempted filling station robbery at Galion Sept. 27, went on trial in the room where his two alleged pals have heard juries read mandatory sentences of death.

Seven of the 11 prospective jurors had been tentatively seated when court recessed at noon.

Court Change Sought

Efforts of the defense to obtain a change in venue failed at the opening of court this morning when Judge J. Walter Wright overruled a motion presented by Attorney M. J. Mossbacker. Sites' counsel asked the case be taken to another court because of the fear of a prejudiced jury.

Fred Massa is in Ohio penitentiary awaiting death in the electric chair Jan. 8 while Kenneth McCartney, found guilty of first degree murder, is in county jail awaiting hearing on a motion for a new trial in connection with the fatal shooting of Wilcox. The state maintains that Sites was a member of the gang of three that attempted to rob the filling station.

One Woman Seated

One woman was tentatively seated on the jury at noon. She was Mrs. Carrie Zincke of Bucyrus. Other jurors seated were Fred Ulmer of New Washington, Philip Schuler of Galion, Milton F. Ulmer of Bucyrus, John Beegle of Crestline Edward Baildinger and William M. Beck of Galion.

Eighteen witnesses have been subpoenaed by the state while Sites has called McCartney to testify. Sites is the first of the three

JONES LEADS FIELD WITH BRILLIANT 69

Atlanta Barrister in Fine Form in Qualifying Round of Amateur.

By The Associated Press

MERION CRICKET CLUB, ARDMORE, Pa., Sept. 22—Starting his final battle to sweep the golf boards for 1930, Bobby Jones shot a brilliant 69, one under par, to take the lead in the first 18-holes of the 36-hole qualifying play for the National Amateur golf championship today.

Jones took the lead away from 19-year-old Sidney W. Noyes, Yale freshman, who carried a sensational 38-32—70, even par.

The triple champion was in fine form and experienced trouble on only four holes. Twcie he was in traps and twice in the rough but recovered sensationally. He was over par on only one hole. The 378-yard 11th, where his drive found deep rough and he failed to find the green with his second. He offset this with birdies on the 10th and 13th, sinking putts to 24 and 12 feet respectively.

On five other greens Jones lipped the cup with long putts, otherwise he would have administered a fine beating to old man par.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH LEADER SUCCUMBS

Funeral Services of Bishop Leonard To Be Held in Cleveland Thursday.

By The Associated Press

GAMBIER, O., Sept. 22—The death of Bishop William A. Leonard, of the diocese of Ohio, has deprived the Protestant Episcopal church of one of its most noted leaders.

Bishop Leonard, who had presided over the Ohio diocese for 42 years, died at his summer home here yesterday from heart trouble and the infirmities of age. He was 82 years old.

The end came after a courageous fight. His death had been expected momentarily since Friday night, but he appeared to rally and regained consciousness several times before he succumbed. He had been ill since last June, when he was stricken while preparing to leave for Mt. Vernon to consecrate a class. It was the first time in his 42 years as bishop that he had failed to keep a confirmation appointment.

A niece, Mrs. Florence Sullivan of New York, and a life-long friend, Canon Orville Watson, professor at Bexley theological seminary here, were at his bedside. Mrs. Leonard died 15 years ago. There were no children.

Bishop Leonard was the oldest active bishop in the church, both in age and in point of service and twice was titular head of the church. He served as presiding bishop between the death of Bishop John Gardner Murray on Oct. 3, 1929, and the appointment of Bishop Charles F. Anderson of Chicago Nov. 13, 1929, and again

BEN F. BLAKE, LOCAL FLORIST, DIES SUDDENLY

Had Been Prominently Identified with Marion Business Circles for 25 Years.

RITES TO BE WEDNESDAY

Services To Be Held at Epworth M. E. Church, with Rev. Turley in Charge.

Ben Frederick Blake, 48, actively identified in the florist business of Marion for the last 25 years dropped dead yesterday at 8 p. m. at his home at 266 South Vine street.

Mr. Blake was a member of the board of directors of the state florists' association and a past president of the Marion County chapter of the Isaac Walton league. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Blake and was born on the Blake homestead on the Garden City pike, where the large Blake greenhouses now stand.

Had Been With Friends

Yesterday he complained of a severe pain in his right side. A physician was called and an examination made which showed that his heart was in sound condition. Last night he started upstairs to retire when a neuralgia pain struck his heart, causing instant death. He had been uptown talking with friends an hour and a half before he died.

Mr. Blake was one of Marion county's most enthusiastic boosters for the Great Lakes and Ohio River Canal, and was keenly interested in every action taken that might effect the outcome of the proposed canal.

Each year he furnished the flowers and shrubs for the flower boxes and beds at the Marion fire station houses. He visited frequently at the Central station.

Mr. Blake had been proprietor of the Blake Florist shop now located on West Center street for 25 years. His father, Francis Blake, Marion's pioneer gardener and florist, began his gardening on a large

HUEBNER BUYS OHIO THEATER AT SALE

Cincinnati Man Is Successful Bidder for Property in Receivership.

The Ohio theatre Saturday was sold at receiver's sale to E. C. Dee of Marion, who represented J. J. Huebner of Cincinnati, on his bid of $4,510. Receiver Kenneth Robinson announced today.

Huebner will arrive in Marion Tuesday or Wednesday to begin plans for the reopening of the motion picture house. It was stated today by Howard Guthery, attorney for the purchaser.

The firm went into receivership more than a month ago on application of Daniel Gutilla of Bellefontaine, one of the stockholders, who was the only other bidder at the sale Saturday.

The theater formerly was known as the Grand, but was reopened last May by a new concern known as the Marion Ohio Theatre Corp.

Possibility that the playhouse may resume operation before the end of September was expressed today, but definite plans will not be announced until Huebner's arrival. It will, however, be operated by local capital, it was reported.

Huebner was receiver last year for the Marion Photo Play Co., which operated the Grand, Marion and Orpheum theatres. Previously he was receiver for the Oakland theater.

JACK RAYMOND, 42, CLAIMED BY DEATH

Musician Who Once Played for Four Marx Brothers Dies Suddenly Here.

Jack Raymond Reamer, 42, known professionally and among his friends as Jack Raymond, dropped dead of apoplexy shortly after 4 p. m. Saturday in front of his home at 117 East Church street.

Two weeks ago he opened the Orpheum theater, the house in which he had played the piano in 1924 when he met and married Etta Schupback, professionally, Etta Sheldon, who was playing on a popular circuit at that time. Their marriage took place Dec. 28 of that year.

Toured Entire U. S.

Mr. Raymond had been interested in music and the theater for more than 2 years and his positions had taken him over the United States and into Canada. He was born April 3, 1888, in Roanoke, Va., and soon afterwards, his parents died. While he worked on various farms and at odd jobs, he was sent to school by those for whom he worked.

When he completed high school the government gave him a three-year scholarship to Carlisle university, the school of higher learning for the government's Indian citizens. Mr. Raymond's grandmother was a full-blooded Indian, his mother was part Indian and his father was French.

In college he had to decide be-

RASKOB, JR. TO WED

Miss Minerva Aaronson, 19-year-old Jewish secretary of New Haven, Conn., (upper) whose engagement to John J. Raskob, Jr., has been announced. It is reported that John J. Raskob, Sr., Democratic National committee chairman, has set aside a trust fund of $2,000,000 for the couple.

REST ORDERED FOR HOOVER JR

Son of President To Spend Several Months Recovering from Illness.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 – Dr. Joel T. Boone, the White House physician, said today a complete diagnosis of the illness of Herbert Hoover, Jr., had disclosed a small tubercular infection in his chest.

If properly treated, the physician said, he had every reason to believe full and complete recovery is likely, but it will take months of rest and diet.

In the meantime, young Hoover has taken a leave of absence from his business connections as vice president of the Western Air Express.

The condition was held to be a result of the general run down condition of the 28-year-old man.

The president's son was taken last week to the presidential lodge in Virginia and was believed to be suffering from an intestinal disorder.

Diagnosis was not completed, however, until this week.

Doctor Boone said early suspicions of a tubercular infection were confirmed.

He will stay at the mountain camp probably until frost comes and then will be brought to the White House for another complete examination. Future treatment will be decided at that time.

Dr. Boone said the patient had gained weight and was in much better condition after the one week of rest and regular diet.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Jr., today arrived from her home in Pasadena, Calif., and joined her husband at the presidential camp. Their three children were left in California.

Boone's Statement

Captain Boone's statement on the condition of Herbert Hoover, Jr., follows:

"As a result of a complete overhaul of Mr. Herbert Hoover, Jr., the elder son of the President, upon his arrival here in Washington from California, suspicious evidence was elicited of a very early tubercular infection of a small area in the chest.

"Subsequent clinical and laboratory investigations have confirmed early suspicions so that it can be definitely stated that the diagnosis is established. As the lesion (or diseased area) is small, and the disease discovered early, the prognosis is properly viewed optimistically.

"The intestinal condition is a result of his general rundown state of health. He has responded to the treatment instituted and has gained strength and weight during the past week at the Rapidan camp.

"The modern conception of tuberculosis, when diagnosed early and properly treated, is not viewed with alarms. It is believed that in a case of this sort a complete cure results when such course is pursued.

ROBT. STORACI CLAIMED HERE

Well-Known Fruit Dealer and Confectioner Dies After Illness.

Robert Storaci, 61., well-known Marion fruit dealer and confectioner, died yesterday at 7 a. m. at his home at 481 Park boulevard, after a four months' illness.

Mr. Storaci retired about 15 years ago from active participation in his business interests. At one time he owned a confectionery on the site of the present Midway restaurant building and after selling this interest, bought a fruit commission house at North State and Mill streets which he operated until he retired.

At the time of his death, he had patented a hair-growing tonic which he was endeavoring to put on the market. He gave treatments in Mansfield and other nearby cities.

Mr. Storaci was born Jan. 14, 1869, in Syracure, Italy, to Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Storaci.

Two children, Katherine and Edward Storaci live with their mother, now Mrs. George Wells of 238 East George street. Mrs. Albert Vezi, a sister, lives in Syracuse, Italy, and a brother Charles Storaci lives in Zanesville.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the W. C. Boyd funeral home on South Main street, with the Rev. S. S. Hardy, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church officiating. Interment will be made in Marion cemetery. The body may be viewed at the funeral home until service time.

MERRILL GIST, OF CALEDONIA, DIES AT GALION

Two Companions Hurt, One Seriously, as Car Crashes Into Tree.

GIRL'S SHOULDER BROKEN

Cleveland Tops List of Fatalities with Three Killed in Mishaps.

Merrill Gist, 24, of near Caledonia, was killed and four other persons living in or near that village were injured in a series of automobile accidents Sunday. Fourteen lives were claimed over the state in traffic mishaps.

Ralph Dice, 27, and Howard Cohen were in Gist's car when it crashed into a tree at Galion. Both were hurt. Dice is in a serious condition in a Galion hospital while Cohen sustained slight injuries.

Ella Nanse of near Caledonia sustained a broken shoulder blade when a car in which she was riding collided with another at the intersection of routes 95 and 98 east of Marion, and James Geyer, also of Caledonia, was cut and bruised in another automobile mishap near Galion.

Three of the deaths occurred in Cleveland, two in Akron and two in Ironton. The others occurred in Canton, New Philadelphia, Peninsula, Toledo, Lorain and Lima.

TRAIN DEMOLISHES CAR

Columbus Residents Save Lives by Leaping from Auto Here

An Oldsmobile coach in which three Columbus women had been riding was demolished yesterday at 8:30 p. m. when a special Big Four passenger train crashed into the car on State street.

The passengers abandoned the car when they saw the southound passenger train bearing down on the stalled machine. They were Marie Cheesman, driver of the car, and Mary and Martha Arnette, all of Columbus.

The crash occurred when Miss Cheesman, while driving north on State street, attempted a left-hand turn on to Mill street, but unaware of the condition of the railroad tracks, she drove on to the rails into the path of the train. There is no paving between the rails, which protrude half a foot above the stone ballast which partially covers the ties.

The wrecked machine was taken to Albert Bros. garage, where an examination today disclosed that only the left headlight and the two rear tires escaped destruction in the impact. All glass in the car was shattered and strewn over Mill street.

A dented right front fender and a bent front bumper were sustained by a Whippet coach driven by Oakey Powell of Marion when it collided last night at Main and Fairground streets with a Ford driven by Robert Oberlander of Bucyrus.

ONE KILLED IN CRASH

Merril Gist Dies of Injuries; Two Companions Hurt.

GALION, Sept. 22—Merrill Gist, 24, of two and one-half miles northeast of Caledonia, was fatally injured Sunday morning in an automobile crash three miles south of Galion on the South State road near the G. W. Shumaker farm.

He was riding in a Chevrolet sedan driven by Ralph Dice of Caledonia. The car swerved into the ditch, knocking a mail box down and finally hitting a tree on the right hand side of the road. The car was almost torn to pieces.

At 4 a. m. Mr. Gist and Mr. Dice were picked up by a passing motorist and taken to the Good Samaritan hospital here, where they were attended by Dr. R. M. Malone.

Mr. Gist died at 11:30 a. m. never regaining consciousness after the crash. Mr. Dice remainded in an unconscious state all day Sunday at the hospital. His injuries are lacerations and bruises about the face, head and arms. Mr. Dice, who is about 27 years of age, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dice of Caledonia.

A third occupant of the car was Howard Cohen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cohen of Caledonia. All three occupants were riding in the front seat and Mr. Cohen who was riding in the center was not injured as badly as the others. He was also

Spanish-American War Home Is Modern Residen

New Beauty and Comfort Result of Modernization

Inside of Home Also Changed To Meet Demands of Living of Later Day Life; Old Style Porch Becomes Sun Parlor Lighted by Two Bay Windows.

The casual passer-by would never suspect that the home to the left was built years ago when the Spanish-American war was a live topic of conversation. Its sweeping roof lines, pleasing arch over the garage, drive and quaint little stoop, all speak of modern architecture.

Yet this house was once the common-place dwelling illustrated below. These before and after pictures present forcefully the advantages of modernization in making the old home up-to-date.

Once an ordinary house, the kind found on any street in a residential neighborhood; now a delightful home, unusual in its irregular lines and odd architectural touches. That's the story of this pleasant home.

The modernization of this house not only changed the exterior lines of the dwelling to such an extent that the house becomes almost unrecognizable, but when so doing an extra room has been added by enclosing the old open front porch.

Across the front now appears a charming sun room lighted by two bays of windows. The main entrance to the house lies off this room. A narrow stoop—practically a step—leads down to the garage driveway which also serves as the walk leading to the public sidewalk. Such an arrangement as this saves the expense of a formal concrete walk and gives an unconventional touch which is in keeping with the atmosphere of the dwelling. A tiny shelter having a pitch roof, relieves the doorway of its bare look.

New Roof Lines

While basically the roof lines of the house have been changed very little, the extension of the face of the original gable to form a sweeping arch top serves to give the house a low, clinging effect. An archway over the drive, leading to the garage makes the appearance of the dwelling from the street an unusual one.

The two windows on the second floor at the front have not been changed, but above them in the gable a ventilator has been added to give air to the attic, and also to aid the architectural effect.

On the right side of the house a dormer has been added with an opening containing two double hung windows. The lights in the upper sash have been divided into three panes, as this effect tends to eliminate the bareness of one broad pane of glass.

New Sash Lights Dining Room

The old side door leading off the dining room has been enclosed, the small porch and overhead shelter eliminated, and in its stead a bay of three windows has been placed in the side wall to aid in lighting this important room. The dining room should always be well lighted as it is important that the meals of the family be eaten under the best of conditions.

BEAUTY RESULTS FROM FEW CHANGES

Sweeping exterior lines add charm to this home. Once it was the unlovely house pictured at the right. Here again modernization proves its case.

Properly Arranged Books Part of Decorative Scheme in Room

BY MARGERY TAYLOR
Interior Decoration Editor, McCall's Magazine. Written for The Star.

Now books are decoration.

It is more than a matter of harmonious detail—books not only make the "atmosphere" of a room, but, cleverly arranged, they become part of the decorative scheme.

Every home which is a home has books as friends of the family. But, having them, we have now learned to arrange them so that they can also contribute to the beauty of their surroundings.

They can express dignity, culture, hospitality or cheerful intimacy—they express the real personality of those who live in a house better than anything else because they are more eloquent than furniture and more accurate in their variety than pictures or vases.

One or a few at a time, books are those "spots of color" with which the ingenious decorator loves to charm the eye, and better bound volumes between book-ends add meaning to any table. For convenience they should be near every armchair, in racks or modern end-tables.

Nowadays books are not only a living room or library problem; we must have books in every room. The modern kitchen has its shelf of cookbooks; the children's room has its own library. Each bedroom has its favorite volumes for luxurious reading in bed, and a collection of the right books in a guest room is a thoughtful welcome.

In a permanent home, built-in bookshelves are the most logical and can make any plan interesting. In transient quarters, modern sectional bookcases may be used.

In most room designs they are best in pairs, flanking the fireplace, preferably, or on each side of a window or door. Striking rooms can be achieved with bookshelves from floor to ceiling in each corner.

In planning shelves, allow different heights, especially at the bottom, for larger books. Leave plenty of room for the new books, filling up the space temporarily with pewter, figurines or pottery.

Lining the shelves with color makes effective backgrounds for books and helps harmonize them with the room color scheme. Chartreuse, tomato, Chinese red, turquoise blue, silver and gold are especially pleasing.

Science Searches for New Buildin Material Which Is Cheaper, S

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. —Daring plans to develop a kind of building material that does not now exist are under way at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

MODERN LAMP HAS DISTINCTIVE BEAUTY

Accessories Can Be Changed Frequently Owing to Lower Cost.

The housewife who wants to keep up to date cannot change her furniture at frequent intervals due to its large first cost. She must purchase these heavier and more expensive pieces with permanency in mind.

But accessories such as lamps, can be changed at slighter cost when the need for freshening the interior appears.

New styles in lamps have recently been offered which are a far cry from the flower-decorated, fringed and lace trimmed fixtures of previous days. These newer styles of art lamps are decidedly different. Extreme simplicity distinguishes them and they add a satisfactory note of repose to the home.

While some of the shapes in lamps are startling, the tendency is toward a more restrained modernism which depends for its beauty of grace of contour and loveliness of materials. The shade and the base are units, made to supplement each other. The same design appears in both.

The shape of the base may be odd and the coloring in keeping.

A New Roof Right Over the Old!

Buy COAL Now

That's the modern way of re-roofing—the Genasco way—for Genasco Latite Shingles are particularly adapted for laying over worn-out shingles. It avoids the dirt and expense of ripping off the old roof, and gives you a better roof besides—the old roof serves as additional insulation.

Genasco Latite Shingles offer you all the protection of nature's seasoned waterproof — Trinidad Lake Asphalt Cement — which thoroughly coats the tough, long-fibered asphalt-saturated rag felt, adding years of life to the roof.

And every Genasco Latite Shingle has a patented "key" that locks each shingle to those underneath, making practically a one-piece roof. Come in and we'll demonstrate the advantages of Genasco Latite Shingles and show you the four non-fading colors—Red, Green, Blue-black, Mix-tone.

DIES IN LEAP FROM BRIDGE

Witness Fatal Plunge of Daredevil into Hudson River.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—Norman [illegible], 24-year-old professional [illegible], was killed yesterday in a [illegible] leap from the new Fort Lee [illegible] over the Hudson river.

Thousands of motorists and pedestrians saw him leap from the center of the span, shoot downward for [illegible] feet near the surface of the river, then flatten backward, [illegible] the water with terrific [illegible] breaking his spine.

Terry christened the partly completed structure late Saturday [illegible] and bid himself to elude [illegible] who would have prevented the jump. He wore a bathing suit, trousers and gymnasium [illegible]. About his waist he had a [illegible] arrangement to protect [illegible] a wooden device was [illegible] to his back to protect his [illegible].

Making his way along the narrow catwalk to the middle of the cable span, Terry poised for a moment with a large banner in his hand. Holding the banner above his head to act as a feather on an arrow and keep him perpendicular, he jumped. He was pulled from the water by James Murray, his manager and others who watched the leap from a motorboat.

Murray was held on a technical charge of homicide. He said Terry had made the leap under contract with the Daily News. This was denied in a statement issued by the News which said that Terry had offered exclusive rights to pictures of the leap and the paper had accepted and had photographers and a reporter at the scene.

ASSERTS HE'S SOLVED BURBANK PROBLEM

Ranch Owner Reports Discovery of Valuable Use for Prickly Cactus.

By The Associated Press

MONTEREY, Mexico, Sept. 22—The prickly cactus may become valuable cattle feed with a new process that removes the peril from its armor of thorns.

W. D. Corbin, an American who operates an extensive ranch in Chihuahua, says he has found a solution to the problem that occupied the attention of the late Luther Burbank.

By adding an inexpensive chemical compound of sulphate salts as shredded cactus leaves are tramped by wooden-sandaled men in a silo, Corbin has produced ensilage said to equal grass or corn fodder in food value.

One pound of the sulphate salts to every ton of ensilage, he says, quickly reduced the woody thorns to a semi-liquid condition, harmless to livestock.

Corbin estimates cactus ensilage will cost one-fourth as much as corn ensilage does in the United States. He expressed the opinion at his home here that cactus feed might be shipped in airtight containers to dairy regions of the north. The discovery may be utilized in the semi-arid cattle country extending from Texas to California and far south into Mexico where the desert plant abounds.

The feed value of cactus has been known many years and scientists have puzzled over the problem of ridding the plants of their thorns. The United States department of agriculture devised a torch with which thorns could be burned off but the process was too slow and pounderous for practical application.

Burbank then was asked to develop a thornless cactus. Some progress was made before his death.

FARMERS HIT HARD BY FEED SHORTAGE

$10,000,000 To Be Spent Outside State for Supply, Is Estimate.

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 22—At least $10,000,000 will be spent by Ohio farmers outside of the Buckeye state for feed to maintain stock during the coming winter as a result of the drouth this summer, according to a survey which was conducted by C. R. Arnold, chairman of the drouth committee of the agricultural extension service of Ohio State university.

The survey shows that in 66 per cent of the counties of this state, the income on many farms will be completely wiped out this year.

Farmers reported sales of 2.1 per cent of their dairy cattle, 20 per cent of their hogs, 5.3 per cent of their sheep, and 9.9 per cent of their bef cattle because of drouth conditions.

As a result of the drouth and market prices for dairy products, lambs and wool, farmers plan to keep about three per cent less cattle, nine per cent less sheep, 20 per cent less hogs, and 31 per cent less beef cattle than a year ago.

PRESENTING RADIO'S NEWEST MIRACLE

PHILCO TONE-CONTROL

RADIO'S newest marvel—a tone control knob on the front of the set which gives you mastery over the quality of tone sent from the broadcasting station.

Think what it means to bring in your favorite jazz band with the crisp, snappy tone of dance-floor REALITY. Consider the enjoyment of bringing in the great Philco Symphony concerts in the mellowest, richest tones, or, if the music offers big brass sonority, you can instantly make it as brilliant as you like, with a turn of the hand.

Philco Tone-Control

Brilliant-Bright-Mellow-Deep

Turn the Philco Tone Control to these four positions of TONE QUALITY. Change speech or music to suit your taste. You have a PERSONAL CONTROL over the tone sent you by the station. Operate it yourself with this knob on the front of the set and vastly increase your sphere of radio entertainment. Truly "radio's newest miracle."

The radio world has been waiting for the perfection of this invention. Everybody has wondered when the radio LISTENER could take a hand in the performance, right at home.

Here it is at last! Hailed all over the land as the greatest step forward in radio reception since the perfection of Philco balanced units, which STILL serve to give you the wonderful lifelike UNDISTORTED Philco tone.

It is natural that Philco should again lead the industry with PHILCO TONE CONTROL. Philco has long been identified with the perfection of radio tone. In 1929 these marvelous sets became world leaders. In popular favor and in sales, because of the wonderful tone produced by Philco's balanced units; new circuits of extraordinary selectivity; tremendous distance ability, opening up of vast new fields of enjoyment for owners.

All these great features are retained and Philco Tone Control is added. Philco's new radios are all you can buy in radio, no matter what you pay. The Philco Screen Grid Plus has, in addition, AUTOMATIC VOLUME CONTROL which counteracts fading, so you can not only get, but hold and enjoy, programs. Each Philco Radio has a new, improved electro-dynamic speaker and a New Station Recording Dial on which you can log your favorite stations. Available for operation on AC or DC electric current, or by battery. And the new Philco cabinets are exquisite creations of America's foremost designers. America's tremendous acceptance has made them far from expensive. Such values are hard to believe until you inspect the Philco line.

We want you to operate the new Philco with Philco Tone Control in your own home. The demonstration won't obligate you in any way. Easy terms, of course, if you decide to buy.

BUTTER PRICE SHOWING GAIN

Half of Loss in Last Spring's Break Recovered; Storage Situation Better.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 22—Butterfat prices have regained half the loss of the break last spring and the storage situation is now favorable to producers, according to a bulletin issued here today by the Ohio Farm Bureau Corporation. The demand, according to the bulletin, on the consumers' side of the situation is not very favorable, so that the outlook before dairymen today is only moderately satisfactory

Prices for butterfat at Chicago have ranged about 38 cents for 92 score butter, the bulletin says, which compares with the low point of 32 cents last spring. The peak of prices last fall was about 10 cents above the present market, so that butter prices have regained about half of the lows. During the coming weeks there may not be much change in these prices from present levels.

Figures on Storage

Creamery butter, according to the bulletin, in storage on Sept. 1 is reported at 143,000,000 pounds, which compares with 169,000,000 pounds a year ago. This is a very satisfactory decrease and shows that the excess supply of butter has been worked down, so that it no longer has a depressing influence on price.

Butter supplies were increasing at this time last year because the government figures showed an increase during August of 17,000,000 pounds, while during August of the present year there was a decrease of 2,000,000 pounds, according to the bulletin. Has there been a normal taking of butter by consumers, the bulletin suggests, the decrease would have been much greater than this figure indicates.

The cream market does not show quite the strength of a month ago. There has been a liberal use of storage cream followed by a lessened demand from the ice cream trade.

Hot Weather Has Effect

Probably the extreme hot weather, the bulletin suggests, which occurred during the summer has had considerable influence in reducing the storage supply of butter. Had there not been a heavy consumption of ice cream more cream would have been made into butter.

The fluid milk market has shown a tendency to increase the price, but recent improvements in pasture conditions have led to some oversupply of milk in Ohio.

Farmers who have been selling milk for manufacturing purposes, the bulletin states, are generally disappointed at their inability to make connections to sell for market milk purposes.

The bulletin concludes that there may be a further liquidation in dairy cows by the middle of the winter when high feed prices, in the face of low milk prices, will render the situation very unsatisfactory for the farmers who are selling milk on a manufacturing basis.

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, Sept. 24

THE sidereal operations for this day seem to make for lively and intriguing conditions, with employment, new undertakings and those commercial enterprises devolving around publicity, promotion, printing and publishing under particularly progressive auspices. In the social, domestic and romantic affairs there may be an element of the singular or irregular or possibly of the highly idealistic or utopian.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a very lively and interesting year, with new ventures and fresh contracts and arrangements engaging the attention. All affairs relating to writings or publicity should flourish. Those in employment may enjoy some advancement, honors or favors from employers. The personal relations may assume some singular, ideal or peculiarly romantic angles. A child born on this day may be particularly versatile and intellectual, although it may have some unusual or secretive angles to its personal character. It should do well with writings and in employment.

Ohio Masons To Observe 101st Grand Assembly

Ceremonies Planned for Worthington in Same Building Where Council Met First a Century Ago; Marion Man Is Grand Marshal for Event in Columbus.

Masons from all parts of Ohio will gather at Columbus and Worthington Sept. 29, 30 and Oct. 1 for the one hundred and first annual grand assembly of the Grand Council of Royal and Select Masters of the state of Ohio and celebration of the one-hundredth anniversary of the founding of the grand council in the state. A large delegation of Masons and their ladies is expected to attend from the local council and guests from outside the state will include Arthur D. Prince of Massachussetts, general grand captain of the guard of the general grand council of the United States.

Gracely Is Grand Marshal

Harvey T. Gracely of this city, grand marshal of the grand council of Ohio, will take part in the celebration and centennial exercises. The Masons and visitors will convene at the Masion temple in Columbus at 10:30 a. m., Tuesday, Sept. 30, and proceed to Worthington where appropriate centennial ceremonies will be held in the samebuilding where the first assembly of the grand council of royal and select masters of Ohio was held in 1830.

Serving on the committee for the reception and introduction of distinguished visitors will be John H. Bartram and Milton B. Dickerson, both of Marion, former grand masters of the grand council of Ohio. Mr. Bartram and Mr. Dickerson are two of four Masons from Marion serving as grand masters of the grand council, the other being the late Timothy B. Fisher and George D. Copeland.

The session will open Monday, Sept. 29, at 3 p. m. with Ewing V. Burns of Findlay, grand master, presiding. The program will include the invocation by the grand chaplain, the proclamation by the grand marshal and the presentation and reception of distinguished visitors.

Following a short business session Tuesday evening, the procession will move to Worthington where the centennial exercises will be held. The invocation will be spoken by Valorous F. Brown, grand chaplain, and Frank W. Hendley, past grand master, will pay a tribute to the founders of the grand council. The exercises will be followed by a barbecue luncheon and an afternoon of informal entertainment at the York country club, returning to Columbus at 4 p. m.

Memorial Services

The program Tuesday night will include a memorial service with the memorial address by Oliver D. Everhard, past grand master of the grand council of Ohio, and an oration by Arthur D. Prince, general grand captain of the guard. The program will include a concert presented by members of the Ladies' Cecilian chorus of Jackson, directed by Mrs. Frank Burgess, with Laura Davies Morgan as accompanist. The centennial ceremonies will conclude with a grand ball.

The closing session Wednesday morning will include the election and installation of grand officers, the receiving and acting on reports of committees and roll call of grand representatives. The annual meeting and dinner of Past Grand Masters and Past Grand High Priests association will be held Wednesday night.

All local Masons and their families are cordially invited to attend the centennial ceremonies and many are expected to visit Columbus and Worthington during the assembly of the grand council.

Grand officers are Ewing V. Burns of Findlay, grand master; Clarence E. O'Neal of Zanesville, deputy grand master; Martin J. Spinks, of Wilmington, grand principal conductor of the work; Frank H. Marquis, of Mansfield, grand treasurer; William T. S. O'Hara, of Toledo, grand recorder; William H. Smith of Bowling Green, grand captain of the guard; Lamar C. Sternberger of Jackson, grand conductor of council; Theodore C. Wangen of Coshocton, grand steward; Harvey T. Gracely of Marion, grand marshal; Harry W. Lloyd, of Toledo, grand sentinel; and Valorous F. Brown of Dayton, grand chaplain.

PRESCRIPTION for Constipation tested by 47 YEARS' PRACTICE

THERE'S one way to help the bowels that is safe, and sure. It empties them of all the poisonous waste without doing any harm. Its action is thorough but so gentle that it never causes the least discomfort.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin always does the work, and it leaves you feeling fine. You can take it freely, reducing the amount as the bowels grow stronger.

If you feel sluggish, can't eat, have dull headaches, feel tired, weak and run-down, this famous doctor's prescription will help get rid of the waste that is probably clogging your system. If the children have coated tongue or bad breath; if they seem bilious, fretful, upset, give them a little Syrup Pepsin, too. It tastes so good they'll like it, and it can't hurt them. Its gentle aid is ideal for women.

By taking a little at those times when they are most likely to be constipated, they can avoid much discomfort. Its mild but thorough action commends it to older men and women, too.

Dr. Caldwell specialized on the bowels. His prescription of laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other ingredients has been tested by 47 years' practice. Get a bottle from your drugstore. Take some next time you feel the need. Then you'll know why "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin" is the family laxative of millions.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER lived on a 440-acre farm, on the edge of Cleveland. The city grew toward the farm, the Rockefellers moved away, the farm could have been sold at a great profit.

But profit now interests the Rockefellers as little as salt water interests a sailor.

John D. Rockefeller Jr. has been for the last four years changing the old farm to a settlement of modern, inexpensive houses for smaller business men, executives and workers.

On the farm now are four blocks of 81 private houses, designed by Andrew J. Thomas, who built the Metropolitan Life model dwellings for Mr. Eckert, and subsequently the model tenements in New York for Mr. Rockefeller. Several millions have been spent. The project completed will cost $75,000,000.

MR. ROCKEFELLER adds to the value of his good example by emphasizing the fact that it is common sense business, not charity. The houses are expected to earn interest on the investment, a fact that means nothing to the Rockefellers, father or son, but will interest others in similar useful work.

When it can be shown that a thing can be made simultaneously used AND profitable, many will follow the leader.

Mr. Eckert produced admirable apartments at rents extremely moderate; made them pay eight per cent on the investment of his policy holders and has hundreds on the tenants' waiting list.

All this will awaken mixed emotions in the single tax bosom.

They think nobody should own land. But if nobody owned it, who would build wisely? Surely not grafting municipal governments. And you can imagine the graft if city governments owned all the city real estate?

WHARTON RESIDENT CLAIMED BY DEATH

Funeral Services Held at Home Today for Mrs Amanda Robison.

Special To The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Sept. 22—Funeral services for Mrs. Amanda Robison, who died late Saturday morning at her home near Wharton following an illness since last January from carcinoma, were held this afternoon at the home with Rev. Street, pastor of the Beech Grove United Brethren church, in charge. Burial was made in the Wharton cemetery.

Mrs. Robison was the daughter of David and Caroline Vogel Kimmel, both of whom survive and reside at Wharton. She was born in Richland township Sept. 29, 1875. She was united in marriage Sept. 29, 1895 to Frank Robison, who died two years ago.

Two children survive, Mrs. Robert Rife of east of Wharton and Mrs. Pearl Price, who resides on the home place in Richland township. A sister, Mrs. Elmer Zeigler of Bucyrus, also survives.

HYDE DELVING INTO SOVIET GRAIN DEALS

Seeks First-Hand Information on Chicago Board of Trade.

While in Chicago, he is likely to press his demand for regulations which would make impossible transactions such as those engaged in by the Russian syndicate.

President Hoover, who discussed the case with Hyde before leaving for his nearby Rapidan camp Saturday, was expected to go into the situation further today. Mr. Hoover returned to the capital last night after only 24 hours absence. He has kept in touch with all the latest developments in the case.

These developments included an amplification by Hyde of his original charge that the Russian syndicate had sold short 5,000,000 bushels of wheat in the Chicago pit, thereby contributing to the drop in grain prices during the period from Sept. 8 to 11, inclusive. Hyde yesterday raised the figure to 7,500,000 bushels and intimated the further investigation might show greater activity.

NOT VIEWED SERIOUSLY

Grain Traders and Newspapers Not Concerned Over Hyde Charge.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22—Comparatively slight importance was attached today by grain traders and Chicago newspapers to Secretary of Agriculture Hyde's charges that Russia had depressed the American wheat market by heavy short selling.

The business conduct committee of the board of trade took the charges more seriously, however, and Joseph W. Badenocn, chairman, announced that a "thorough and careful" investigation of the reports would be launched.

between the death of Bishop Anderson last Jan. 30 and the election of Bishop James DeWolf Peery of Rhode Island last March. Bishop Leonard on both occasions declined to serve as permanent presiding bishop because of ill health and his advancing age.

He was nationally noted for his devotional and philanthropic works. He published a number of books and magazine articles.

Brief services will be held here Tuesday and the body taken to Cleveland, where it will lie in state at Trinity Cathedral until final services are held Thursday afternoon. Members of the house of bishops are expected to attend the funeral. Burial will be beside the body of his wife in a crypt at the cathedral.

The Rt. Rev. Warren L. Rogers of Cleveland automatically became bishop of the diocese of Ohio. He was chosen condjutor to Bishop Leonard five years ago while serving as dean of St. Paul's Episcopal cathedral at Detroit.

picked up by a passing motorist and taken to his home in Caledonia.

The body of Mr. Gist was taken to the Homer Timson undertaking establishment at Caledonia Sunday, and was returned to the home of his father, O. C. Gist east of Caledonia late Sunday night.

Merrill Gist was born May 30, 1906, northeast of Caledonia, the son of Ora C. and Nettie (Lowmiller) Gist. Surviving are: His father; stepmother; a brother, Cleo Gist of Mt. Gilead; a sister, Miss Eloise Gist; two half-brothers, Eldon and Robert Gist at home. His mother preceded him in death a number of years ago.

He attended the Centralized Schools at Martel. He had been employed at the Mansfield Tire & Rubber Co. of Mansfield, at the time of his death. He had many friends and was well known.

Funeral services will be held at the home Tuesday at 2 p. m. Burial will be made in the Caledonia cemetery.

James Geyer of Caledonia was injured Sunday morning near the Green farm, three and a quarter miles south of Galion on the South State road.

Geyer was driving south when he lost control of his car and landed in the ditch. He was alone in the car when it run off of the road and turned over.

He was picked up by a passing motorist and taken to the Good Samaritan hospital here and treated by Dr. Mart Helfrich. His injuries were bruises and a deep gash in the head. He was later taken to the home of a brother, Lewis Geyer, residing on Parsons street here.

SHOULDER BROKEN IN CRASH

Ella Nance of Near Caledonia Is Injured in Mishap.

A broken right shoulder was the most serious injury sustained when two cars, containing seven persons, crashed together at the Claridon and Columbus-Sandusky pike east of Marion, yesterday at 6 p. m.

The injury was sustained by Ella Nance, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Nance of near Caledonia. Mr. and Mrs. Nance, Ella, Fred Nance and Gladys Nance were driving west on the Claridon road.

Their sedan and a car driven by Arnold L. Reid, Bucyrus furniture dealer, in which his wife was riding, came together at the crossing, damaging both cars. Mr. and Mrs. Reid escaped injuries as did Fred Nance and Miss Gladys Nance.

Mrs. Nance suffered an injured back which did not prove serious. She was removed from City hospital last night and Mr. Nance, whose right hand was badly lacerated in several places, was released this morning. Miss Ella Nance will be a patient at the hospital for some time. They were brought to Marion in the W. C. Boyd ambulance.

The body will be moved from the South Vine street home to Epworth church at noon Wednesday. Until Wednesday noon, friends may view the body at the home, and from noon until the hour of services at the church.

MRS. JAMES HOPLEY CLAIMED IN BUCYRUS

Prominent Social and Political Leader Dies Suddenly After Stroke.

Special To The Star

BUCYRUS, Sept. 22—Mrs. James R. Hopley, prominent woman civic and political leader of this city, died suddenly at her home at 229 West Warren street, Saturday at 9 p. m., following a stroke of apoplexy. Mrs. Hopley suffered a stroke while returning from the downtown district Saturday night with Mr. Hopley. She was carried the remaining distance to her home by Mr. Hopley.

Mrs. Hopley was born near Wauseon, O., May 18, 1876, the daughter of Elnora Sickels and Alexander J. Shaffer. She was married in 1896 to Dr. C. L. Sutton who with one son preceeded her in death. She was married in 1925 to James Hopley, who survives with one sister, Mrs. O. E. Neeley of Findlay and her mother, Mrs. Elnora Terpening of Findlay.

Mrs. Hopley, who until her marriage to Mr. Hopley, was associated with the M. & S. Candy Co., of this city, was prominent in church affairs of the Presbyterian church and of the various organizations of that church where she held various offices. At the time of her death she was president of the Monnett Hospital Board of Women Managers and superintendent of the hospital. She also was a member of the New Era club.

Funeral services will be held at the home Tuesday at 1:30 p. m., Rev. E. J. Wykle, pastor of First Presbyterian church officiating. The body will then be removed to the home of Mrs. Neeley in Findlay where services will be conducted by Rev. S. S. Daugherty. Interment will be made in Maplegrove cemetery there. Arrangements are in charge of William Wise & Sons.

For the last five years he and his wife had lived intermittently in Marion. For two years they had been in Hundred, W. Va., where he was director of music in the high school. He organized a boys' band and a boys' and girls' orchestra while he was there, and gave private lessons in music. Mr. Raymond was competent to teach any musical instrument, his wife said last night. He refused, however, to touch a banjo and would never instruct on this instrument.

Knew Marx Brothers

Mr. Raymond was a personal friend of the Four Marx Brothers, for whom he was musical director years ago in their first act, the schoolroom scene. [illegible] 12 years ago he was in Chicago as a producer of musical comedies.

Mr. Raymond was perhaps best known here, before taking over the Orpheum theater, as the pianist at the old Grand theater. He came here from Florida in 1926 to accept the position as pianist at the theater and played there until it became entangled in legal action. From his position at the Grand he went to Marietta as musical director at the Auditorium, a Marietta theater, and from there to Hundred.

Saturday afternoon during the matinee at the theater, Mr. Raymond told his wife he believed he had better go home and rest before the night show. He dropped dead before he reached their apartment. He had complained Friday of feeling as if he was suffering of acute indigestion, she said.

Daughter Dies

Last April 6, they lost their daughter Rose Alleen, at Hundred. Besides his wife Mr. Raymond leaves a son Jack, Jr., and a brother, Rev. Lon V. Reamer of Rachell, W. Va.

He was a member of Epworth M. E. church, of Elks Lodge No. 555 at Columbus, Miss., Buckeye Aerie No. 337, F. O. E. of Marion and the Marion branch of the American Federation of Musicians.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the W. C. Boyd funeral home on South Main street. Dr. C. E. Turley, pastor of Epworth M. E. church will officiate. Burial will be made in Marion cemetery. The body may be viewed at the funeral home until time of the services.

Attorney General Writes Letter to Attorney J. D. Sears.

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 22—"Your work is a credit not only to Crawford county but to the state as well," declares Attorney General Gilbert Bettman today in a letter to Prosecuting Attorney J. D. Sears of Bucyrus.

The attorney general compliments Sears for his activities along the lines of law enforcement and criminal prosecution.

"I know you will not think it amiss if I take this opportunity to tell you what a fine piece of work I think you have been doing in Crawford county," Bettman wrote Sears.

"I am not sure that the people realize the effort and strain necessary to accomplish results such as you have achieved. It is the splendid work of men such as yoursef which demonstrates the wisdom of leaving matters of law enforcement and criminal prosecution in the hands of local prosecutors.

"Please accept my congratulations for what has been done and my best wishes for your future efforts in the public service."

GRAND JURY OPENS BANK FAILURE PROBE

Mal S. Daugherty Summoned for Questioning in Fayette County Inquiry

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON C. H., Sept. 22—The Fayette county grand jury went into session today to investigate the failures of the Ohio State and Peoples & Drovers banks here last summer.

Judge H. M. Rankin, in his instructions to the jurors, called their attention to "rumors" circulated after the banks failed, and he told them to "delve deeply into the situation." The judge added "let neither passion or perjudice, friendship or favor swerve you from a faithful discharge of your sworn duties."

Among witnesses who will appear before the jury late today and tomorrow are Mal S. Daugherty, former president of the Ohio State bank who owes the banks more than $77,000 in promissory notes, according to involuntary bankruptcy proceedings instituted against him last week by Attorney General Gilbert Bettman; former Attorney General Joseph McGhee, C. P. Ballard, vice president of the bank; Evard M. Ford, ex-teller, who was convicted of embezzlement but was paroled some time ago. Stockholders of the Ohio bank also were summoned as witnesses.

The grand jury was to go into its regular docket first, taking up the bank cases later in the day.

Snubbing the Nationalists.

The round table conference on India that will open October 20 seems likely to proceed against a background of violence on the peninsula. Sixty-six Indians of all religions and all parties excepting the Nationalist have been invited to attend, but it is the Nationalists who are at the bottom of most of the Indian unrest and they hardly can be expected to ignore the obvious snub.

The Nationalists, unfortunately for their own interests, have advocated a policy of all-or-nothing. A compromise measure of settlement offered Great Britain by the party asked for a complete responsible government and the right of secession from the empire at will and even such terms as these must have been worse before they were whittled down by "compromise." The usually calm and sympathetic Lord Irwin, viceroy of India, was shocked out of his well-bred composure by the nature of the request.

In the weeks which remain before the opening of the conference it is probable that increasing support for the Labor government's stand on the Indian question will be evident in England. The all-or-nothing attitude of the Nationalist congress will be very largely responsible if such a change in attitude occurs. As never before, the British are alert to the possibility of development of empire trade and India is an important consideration wherever there is talk of trade. It would be only natural for the British workingman to feel that his own welfare depends on a solution of the problem in India.

Strictly speaking, the coming round table conference would be a true constituent assembly only if the Nationalist party were to be represented. As the delegates have been named, it can only succeed in bringing a certain amount of pressure to bear on the uninvited Nationalists, who, after all, have never claimed to represent more than a slight minority of India's vast population. They, in turn, will satisfy their resentment by keeping the civil disobedience campaign very much alive during the two or three months of the conference.

An Injustice.

The Toledo Blade, a newspaper the political policy of which is that of independent Republicanism, announced last week that it could not support the candidacy of Roscoe C. McCulloch for the senate. The Blade's reason is that Mr. McCulloch is unwilling to let the people rule. That conclusion is reached by the following course of reasoning:

"Senator McCulloch at the Republican state convention definitely announced himself as unqualifiedly in favor of the continuance of prohibition. He refuses to say that in case there is a statewide referendum on the prohibition question he will abide by the wishes of the people. This means that he considers himself as greater than the people he represents, and that in prohibition, one of the most important problems of the day, he would represent McCulloch rather than represent Ohio. The Blade, therefore, which would like to support the Republican nominee for the United States senate, can not because it places the wishes of the voters above those of Mr. McCulloch."

This is a significant conclusion—not because it is made by an influential newspaper, but because it encourages a fearful blight that is stealing over the political life of the United States. Are public servants to be punished for having personal convictions on important questions and the courage to support them? Are statesmen, entrusted with the affairs of the nation, to be reduced to the common level of the electorate they represent? Are they to be but puppets, animated hither and thither by the breath of the always changeable crowd The Blade, apparently, says "yes."

Seeking a way to expose the danger of such an attitude, an article by Elmer Davis in a recent issue of Harper's magazine is recalled. Under the title, "Founding Fathers and Straddling Sons," Mr. Davis discusses at length the principles involved in Senator McCulloch's stand on prohibition.

Mr. Davis assumes that nothing pleases the voters so much as snicking off the political head of a man who protrudes above the level of the average, "who speaks and thinks for himself instead of falling in with the sentiments of the crowd." With telling effect, he recounts the parable of the bramble which, when asked by the trees to rule over them after the olive tree and the fig tree had refused, replied: "If in truth ye anoint me king over you, then come and put your trust in my shadow." Brambles in public life are what we want and what we usually get, observes Mr. Davis, but adds that "if things ever get really hot, we may not find much shelter in their shadow."

Mr. Davis further compared the politician whose ear is forever to the ground with the "founding fathers" of the United States—men whose votes represented their opinions; men who did not betray their own convictions for the sake of being elected. In conclusion he says:

"We may have latent in the citizen body as much governmental ability as the great revolutionary statesmen displayed; but it rarely tries to run for office, and when it does we enthusiastically reject it and choose somebody who announces that his private convictions will never be allowed to stand in the way of the people's will."

It happens that the last statement has no application in Ohio's senatorial race, but it concerns a principle involved when a politician is criticized publicly for daring to support his own convictions on a controversial matter. When a candidate is big enough to declare himself independently of that action which expediency dictates, he is deserving of praise, not condemnation.

What was the wondrous influence that changed Senators Jones and Wheeler from drys to wets overnight? What made Mrs. McCormick betray the dry votes that nominated her by straddling on prohibition before election? Their convictions? It's difficult to believe it was anything but their own strong instincts of self-preservation.

There are dry voters who seek and who will welcome the opportunity to vote dry next November without risking the loss of their vote by a candidate's skill in self-preservation. In Ohio, voters can express themselves definitely one way or the other through the candidacies of Roscoe C. McCulloch, who is dry and will remain dry, and Robert J. Bulkley, who is wet and will remain wet. It will take men like these two to settle prohibition, men who know what they think and vote that way.

If the Toledo Blade wished to swing its valuable support to the wet candidate it might have done so without doing an injustice to his courageous opponent in an election characterized in far too many instances by a lamentable lack of courage.

Many seventeenth century homes are being razed in Rome to better the view of the city's really ancient structures and render them more prominent. Mussolini's dictatorship may be doomed, as we are being told, but his predicted downfall seemingly is giving him far less concern than the carrying out of his promise to "restore to Rome the glory which was once hers."

In recognition of the debt Democracy owes to Senator George W. Norris by reason of his efforts in behalf of the candidacy of Alfred E. Smith in 1928, the Democratic national committee is keeping hands off in the Nebraska senatorial campaign. Well, the Hon. George tried hard enough to merit Democratic gratitude, even though he didn't accomplish anything more than to establish the absurdity of his pretension that he is a Republican.

Setting Ohio History Right.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

In the occasion of a visit to western Ontario, the writer discovered that he had taken too much for granted concerning the Thames river, on the shores of which the battle of October 5, 1813, the first important one in the War of 1812, was fought between General William Henry Harrison, commanding the American forces, and Procter and Tecumseh at the head of the British forces.

It had always been his notion that the Thames river had a generally southerly course and emptied into Lake Erie. While in Detroit he found in the newspapers an announcement that there was to be an excursion up this river to the city of Chatham, and decided to improve the opportunity to explore the historical scene for the first time.

To his surprise, he found that at the start the captain turned the bow of his steamboat toward the north. He watched operations for a time, sure that the northward movement was for supplies and that the course would shortly be changed in the direction of Lake Erie.

But it was not. Up the St. Clair river and almost across the body of water directly in the lane of steam vessels navigating the Great lakes; then turned almost due east and came to a low coast where a lighthouse marked the entrance to a narrow river.

For fifty miles up this river, narrow as the Scioto, but deep enough to be navigated by one of the larger lake steamboats, we went that day, passing the point where the battle was fought and stopping several hours at Chatham, which has placed a monument to Tecumseh, the noted Ohio Indian warrior, and a noted monument to the men of the county of Kent who lost their lives in the World war. No, the Thames river runs a winding course mostly westerly and empties in Lake St. Clair.

A Woman's Feet Bigger?

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Women dislike having feet which are conspicuous for size. To be blunt about it, no woman is proud of big feet; she positively hates them. But there can be no doubt she is increasingly sensible about her shoes and stockings.

The styles in women's dress during the past few years have given us rather accurate information regarding matters formerly hidden in mystery. We know a lot more about things than we did in the older days.

Not so long ago I saw a statement made by the manager of a great hosiery company. He said: "Despite the probable protest from the fair sex throughout the country, the feet of women in America are growing larger!"

Only a few years ago, he said, women wore hosiery well divided in sizes between eight and one-half and ten. Now the smaller sizes are rapidly decreasing and the larger sizes are in increasing demand. "Size nine and one-half is the general average worn by women, but size ten is coming more and more into demand."

I follow the statistician to this point. I must part company when he says: "In another generation there will be little difference in the size of a woman's and a man's foot."

I don't believe it. This is merely another of the many dire predictions we have heard about what will happen to women. I have lived to see every one of these prophecies fail by the wayside.

They used to say that corsets would cramp the organs and lead to disaster. High-heeled shoes would "throw the spine out of alignment" and disturb the nervous system. Veils would cause irritation of the retina and produce blindness. Sheer costumes would lead to bronchitis, pneumonia and tuberculosis. Rouge and powder would poison the blood and damage the nerves.

But they didn't! These terrible things never happened.

In spite of all her "bad," but charming habits, lovely woman has survived and continues to rule the world from her throne of undisputed power. Her feet may be a trifle larger than they used to be, but even that I doubt. Anyhow, fair woman will never become as gross and massive as is man.

Modern women have a different outlook on life than their mid-Victorian ancestor had. Western women have been emancipated just as have Chinese women. No longer will they bunch their toes and crowd their feet into tiny shoes. They are wearing shoes the size nature requires for their pedal extremities. Of course, they need larger sizes in hosiery, not because they have bigger feet, but because they have bigger brains.

They eat honest-to-goodness food. They take real exercise. They walk and dance. Stately minuets, through which a foot-tortured maiden could move with mincing steps, have given way to dances which set the pulses beating.

The feet aren't bigger—they simply spread out over the territory nature intended. They won't be any bigger in the future, because with woman's present sensible foot dressing they have reached, not larger sizes, but merely the sizes they should have worn all the time. Just as you see more of woman these days, you see more of her feet. It is the mode, nothing else!

She insists on having good shoes, well-fitting shoes, sensible shoes! She can't be fooled by the plausible salesman. I am proud of her emancipation.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

Origin of the Earth.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

In the domain of geology and astrophysics, scientists are nowadays developing new theories and materially modifying if not actually overturning the nebular hypothesis of Kant and Laplace. Chamberlin and Moulton have advanced the planetesimal hypothesis, and Jeans and Jeffreys have put forward a modification of this, under the name of the tidal theory. A new theory, markedly differing from those mentioned, is suggested by Barrell. According to this theory, the chemical character of the igneous rocks, the limited depth of density variations in the crust, the limited amount of salt in the sea, the rotation periods of the moon and planets—all point to the molten condition of the earth at the completion of its growth.

Let us imagine the earth in a primitive state, in course of formation. Large masses of matter would be moving through space with individual orbits, but moving in the same directions. A state of incandescence and liquidity would be likely to result from the sizes of the masses involved.

If in addition the infall of masses was sufficiently rapid to bury the heat of previous infalls before it could be dissipated by conduction to the surface, a general heating and liquefaction of the earth would tend to take place, both from the increased compression of the deeper nucleus and the effect of impact at higher levels. As stated by Barrell:

A molten state suggests a rapid earth-growth due to an original clustering of the matter whose convergence built up the planet. Larger nuclei hundreds of miles in diameter and smaller ones comparable to the planetoids moved in elliptic and nearly intersecting orbits. Mutual perturbations kept modifying these orbits and providing new chances for collisions, union and growth. Such collisions led to a development of energy if impact sufficient to produce in the growing earth a molten state, at least in the outer portions. The earth kept growing at the same time by sweeping up large quantities of finer material, but a molten state suggests that the greater growth was due to the infall of larger nuclei. Finally, but one outstanding nucleus, the moon, was left beside the earth, and the earth-moon system attained a condition of stability and completed growth.

The theories of cosmical origin have a peculiar fascination, since they are not subject to the powers of mere reason. A vivid imagination is required to enable us to visualize the mighty picture of earth formation.

At the earlier stages, when growth and formation were more rapid, as pictured by Barrell, the molecular and dust-like matter swept up by the earth settled like a never ceasing cloud of volcanic ash. The planetesimals of sand and gravel size were swept up by the earth many millions of times more abundantly than are meteors at the present time. Those meeting the earth with the higher velocities were consumed by impact. Over the hemisphere of night the otherwise invisible atmosphere above the cloud canopy scintillated with incessant flashes of light and trails of luminous dust. Bodies of larger size gave in their dissolution a still more brilliant display and penetrated to greater depths. At long intervals, with titanic rush and roar, a greater projectile, tens or even hundreds of miles in diameter, cleaved through the canopy of cloud, leaving a tumultuous maelstrom behind, drove almost unchecked through the deep and dense atmosphere, below, and, with worldwide commotion, was engulfed, with development of fervid heat, within the molten sea.—Copyright, 1930, International Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Editorial Opinion.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE.

The conference for progressive labor action has drafted a bill for unemployment insurance for introduction in the forty-eight state legislatures. Essential features of this bill are:

"1: Unemployment insurance is to be a charge on industry in the same way as workmen's compensation for accidents. If it is legitimate that a business should accumulate a reserve in good times so as to be able to pay dividends in periods of depression, it is surely equally legitimate that industry should accumulate reserves to tide over unemployed workers during slack times. Therefore, we advocate contributions by employers alone, and not the tri-partite arrangement of contributions from employer, employe and the state, which is common in European schemes.

"2: We advocate the principle of graduated contributions, industries and establishments having more unemployment to pay a larger percentage of their payrolls into the fund. It is hoped in this way to encourage stabilization of industry and employment, for the less unemployment an industry will have the less it will have to pay in premiums. • • •

"3: Unemployed workers are to receive forty per cent. of their prevailing weekly wage with ten per cent. additional for a wife and five per cent. for each child up to two, that is, in no case more than a total of sixty per cent. of the prevailing weekly wage of the unemployed worker. Insurance is to be paid for not more than twenty-six weeks in each year. A worker on short time not making forty per cent. of his prevailing weekly wage is to be paid the difference between what he receives in his pay envelope and forty per cent. of his weekly wage In no case is a worker to receive in any one year more than the equivalent of forty per cent. of his weekly wages for twenty-six weeks, or sixty per cent. if there are a wife and children.

"4: Any one who has worked and for whom contributions have been made in the state for a period of fifty-two weeks—not necessarily consecutive—is entitled to insurance. • • •"

The conference also favors a federal bill carrying an initial appropriation of $100,000,000 from which the federal department of labor may pay annually to any state establishing a satisfactory unemployment insurance scheme the equivalent of one-third of what the state expends.

This plan certainly goes the whole hog, and has the virtue of candor and forthrightness.

But it is not strategically sound. It will be hard enough to get unemployment bills through which split the expense equally between employer, employe and state. To ask the employer to bear the whole burden will simply increase the pressure of business resistance to unemployment insurance and postpone its adoption indefinitely.

The employer should not be held solely responsible for unemployment. Governmental acts like the higher tariff, which increase unemployment, may be beyond the employer's control and embody policies which he has fought.

A split three ways in the cost of unemployment insurance seems not only the most practicable, but also the most equitable plan.—Columbus Citizen.

PRISONERS PROMISED LEGISLATIVE HEARING

Colorado Parole Controversy To Be Carried Before Lawmakers.

By The Associated Press

CANON CITY, Colo., Sept. 22—A dispute between Governor William H. Adams and the state board of corrections, control body for the state penitentiary where 13 lives were lost in a riot a year ago, has been aired before the convicts.

Charles J. Moynihan of Montrose, board chairman, addressed several hundred prisoners yesterday promising to take their case before the next legislature. His address brought cheers from the convicts.

Governor Adams, who has no immediate control over the penitentiary, recently has refused to honor requests for paroles presented by the board on the grounds it was allowing too much credit for good behavior in reducing terms.

The board, selected by the state civil service commission, has administrative functions limited only by law. Governor Adams has announced he will seek either to abolish the board or make it appointive and directly responsible to the chief executive.

Pioneer in Condensed Food Industry Dies

By The Associated Press

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 22—Dr. John Thompson Dorrance, founder, president and sole owner of the Campbell Soup company, a pioneer in the field of condensed canned foods and reputed to be one of the country's wealthiest men, is dead.

Death came suddenly from a heart attack yesterday at his home, Pomona farm, Cinnamonson, N. J. He was 57 years old and had been confined to his bed only a few days by a seemingly slight illness. Members of his family were at his bedside awaiting the arrival of a physician when the end came.

Hite-Bibler Wedding Saturday at Bride's Home

The nuptial ceremony of Miss Effie Hite, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Hite of north of Marion and Darrel D. Bibler, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Bibler of Delaware, was solemnized Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, in the presence of only the immediate families and close friends.

Rev. L. V. Hite, uncle of the bride, read the double ring ceremony before an altar of palms, ferns and baskets of autumn flowers.

Miss LaVerne Bibler, sister of the bridegroom was maid of honor and Rollie Hite, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

Preceding the exchange of marriage vows, Miss Dorothy Tarr of Columbus, cousin of the bride, played "Barcarole" from "Tales of Hoffman," Offenbach and "Braumeri," Schumann, and sang to her own accompaniment, "I Love You Truly" Bond and "All for You," Brown.

The bride, on the arm of her father, descended the stairs to the strains of the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin." White bridal satin fashioned her gown in princess silhouette. The gown was sleeveless and the low cut neckline was supplemented by a yoke of silk lace antique. Two full cut circular panels of the lace fell from the raised waist line nearly to the floor. She wore a wreath of orange blossoms in her hair and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and baby breath, tied with white lace tulle. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls and a white gold bracelet, a gift from the bridegroom.

The maid of honor wore a light blue crepe frock with tight fitting sleeves and ankle length circular skirt. Her shoes matched her costume. She carried an arm bouquet of Pernet roses and baby breath. Her pearl necklace was a gift from the bride.

A wedding breakfast for 25 guests was given at the bride's home following the marriage ceremony. The bride's table was centered with a large wedding cake trimmed with white wedding bells. Tall yellow tapers tied with orchid tulle were at each end of the table and a miniature bride and bridegroom marked the places of Mr. and Mrs. Bibler.

They left for a motor trip to Washington, D. C., and other points in the east. For traveling Mrs. Bibler wore a brown transparent velvet ensemble with hat of the same material. Her accessories matched her costume and she wore a brown fox fur.

Mr. and Mrs. Bibler are graduates of Harding High school in the class of '23. Mrs. Bibler graduated from the Marion Business college and is now affiliated with the Western & Southern Life Ins[illegible] Co. offices in Columbus. Mr. Bibler graduated from Ohio Wesleyan university in '27 and is a member of the Brotherhood of Wesleyan Men fraternity. He will enter his third year in the college of medicine at Ohio State university this fall. He is a member of the Phi Chi medical fraternity.

After Oct. 1 Mr. and Mrs. Bibler will be at home to their friends at 84 East Frambes avenue, Columbus.

Calvary Church Is Scene of Wedding

Fall flowers arranged a pretty setting for the marriage of Miss Grace R. Weizel and D. Edgar Smothers which was solemnized at 7:45 o'clock Sunday morning at Calvary Evangelical church in the presence of the immediate families and friends of the bride and bridegroom. The pastor Rev. E. Radebaugh read the double ring service. A prelude of wedding music including "Indian Love Call" was played by Mrs. Joseph Baker who also presided at the organ for the wedding marches.

The bride's gown was of orchid chiffon made in period style with a hat of the same shade. Her flowers were a bridal bouquet of yellow roses and gypsophella.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Smothers left on a motor trip through Southern Ohio. Mrs. Smothers wore for traveling a dress of travel crepe with hat and pumps of the same shade. Upon their return they will reside on St. James street where they have their home furnished.

Mrs. Smothers is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Wetzel of 314 Willow street. She is a graduate of Harding High school and the Marion Business college. Mr. Smothers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smothers of Superior street and also a graduate of Harding High school. He is associated as salesman with the Furst-McNess Co.

Guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Wetzel and children Robert, Orus and Georgia Wetzel, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smothers, Miss Charlotte Courtney, Miss Marguerite Harruff, Paul Wheeler, Ray Deolt, Mr. and Mrs. Paul G. He doesn't believe the two are synonymous." Thorne met Mitchell's suspicious glance with unmoved countenance. "I feel at liberty to investigate Kane's murder."

"Good!" Mitchell hitched his chair closer. "I'm coming to you on my own responsibility, Thorne; understand that; the department has nothing to do with it."

Thorne nodded. "You've been to me before—on the same terms."

"Sure; you play straight and, damn it, you've got brains!"

Thorne chuckled. "What do you want, Inspector?" he asked. "But wait." He rummaged about in his drawer and took out a bottle of perfume. "Smell that," he thrust it in Mitchell's hand, then drew out the handkerchief he had found in the music room at Oaklands after his interview with Elsa Chase. Unfolding it, he disclosed a theater ticket. "Now, smell the perfume on this handkerchief."

Mitchell sniffed at the handkerchief and again at the bottle.

"The same scent," he declared, then glanced at the label on the bottle. "Humph, Heavenscent—appropriate name." He looked up sharply. "What has the perfume to do with the case in point?"

Thorne tossed the ticket into Mitchell's lap.

"Good for one performance at Keith's theater yesterday," he commented. "Find out if you can, Inspector, who purchased that ticket, there is a bare possibility the ticket seller may know, and then I'll answer your first question."

"The officials of the laboratory stand by their tests, Mitchell stated. "They declare Kane came to his death through inhaling carbon monoxide gas. I've made a careful examination of Oaklands and Mrs. Winslow is right; there is no way the gas could have been introduced into the bathroom through the usual causes—from the exhaust of an automobile engine, a gas range, a gas water heater, gas logs and other gas heaters. That positively puts the crime on a person or persons with the chemical knowledge to generate the gas and, with sufficient diabolical ingenuity, to introduce it undetected into the locked bathroom."

Thorne took out his pipe and tobacco.

"Your reasoning is entirely logical, Inspector," he admitted. "So logical, that I am doubtful," his voice trailed off into silence for a moment. "Have you located Jack?"

"Not yet," glumly. "A description has been sent broadcast through the regular channels throughout the country."

Inspector Mitchell drew out a bill fold and bent closer.

"Did you run across Dr. Kane while you were in Boston?"

Again Thorne shook his head. "Never even heard of him. Have you made any inquiries about Kane, Inspector?"

"Sure. Kane was a divorce; they don't know what became of his wife, her name was Sara Holcombe. No children, apparently." He stopped and cleared his throat. "While Kane has always been looked upon as a first-class orthopedic surgeon, his practice of late years has fallen off, for no apparent reason that the Boston police could find out."

"That's interesting," commented Thorne quickly. "I'd follow it up, Inspector."

Mitchell nodded. "They added he'd been short of funds lately, with creditors pressing him for money; his bank admitted he'd made unfortunate investments."

"More and more interesting," exclaimed Thorne. "Inspector, you're on the right track."

Mitchell looked gratified. "Glad you think so," he said. "Now, listen here, Thorne, you've seen this bill fold before?"

Thorne looked more closely at the leather bill folder.

"It was lying on the chest of drawers in Kane's bedroom the morning after his murder." He stopped speaking as Mitchell opened the bill fold and spread its contents on the desk; all were there as Thorne remembered them—the three matches, visiting cards, driver's permit and registration card for Kane's automobile, and $500 in bills of varying denominations.

"He wasn't killed with robbery as the motive," remarked Mitchell, separating the money. "See here," and he produced a small, soiled piece of paper, stuck between two $10 bills. "Read that memorandum."

Hastily Thorne scanned the pencil lines: "J. W. paid $1,000; still due $9,000; int. 7 per cent."

"It was written by Kane,' he announced quickly; "Boston sent down specimens of his handwriting."

"Interesting, very. What do you make of it, Inspector?"

"A clinching piece of evidence, Thorne, and against young Jack." Inspector Mitchell spoke with increasing rapidity as his excitement mounted. "Figure it out for yourself, man; here's Jack, who probably borrowed heavily at one time or another from Kane while he was in college. Kane doesn't need the money until his investments go fluey; then he tried to collect; got a thousand out of him, and came down to get the rest."

"But any debt contracted while Jack was at Harvard would be outlawed by this time," objected Thorne.

Mitchell thrust out his jaw obstinately. "Possibly he knew something discreditable to Jack—some college scrape," he pointed out.

"Well, admitting that, what then?"

"We know Jack had no money, for he was overdrawn at his bank; he may have been even deeper in debt," he pointed out; "perhaps he was desperate and, resorting to desperate remedies, plotted to kill Kane with the use of this deadly gas which, as you know, is practically odorless and leaves no trace. If it hadn't been for Dr. McLane's cleverness in noting the condition of the body, the crime would never have been detected, for if the body had once been embalmed no trace of the poison would have been found."

"Your theory presupposes one thing." Thorne argued slowly; "that Jack had previous knowledge of Kane's visit."

"But he did know it," triumphantly. "Lambert told me he took the telegram announcing Kane's arrival over the telephone two days before."

In silence Thorne sat back in his chair and contemplated Mitchell; he wanted time to think. Taking up his neglected pipe, he drew out a box of matches and struck one; it went out promptly and as he again held the match box up to strike another, he noticed the red tips with blue tops on the matches; swiftly his eye traveled to the three matches lying in Kane's bill fold—they were identical in size, with the same red tip and blue top as these in the match box which Else Chase had taken out of her bag and given him the night before.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

By JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

YESTERDAY was Sunday, and fair and coolish. I raised the window and let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth and put my clothes on and went down and got the milk bucket and went out to mingle with the cows. I wish cows were built so a fella could run them through a big ringer and squeeze the milk out of them. Nibs said I was crazy in the head when I said that. He said it is milking the cows all the time that makes my hands so strong and makes me a good fighter. I said maybe it made my hands strong, but it is my heart that makes me a good fighter. He said: "At that, you ain't as good as you think you are." I said: "I am better than you think you are," so then he closed his face.

When I had fed my face and my father had asked me how I liked school as far as I had got, I started to get up and go, but he called me back and told me to answer his question; and when I said I didn't want to get licked they all laughed, and my grandfather said I was an old fashioned boy, but my ant looked disgusted and said they weren't helping me amount to anything. Then she washed me for Sunday school, and she said the taint of the vacation was still sticking to me, but I told her that wasn't the taint she was trying to rub off, but my skin. Then she let me go.

I went out to the barn where the bunch was waiting, and then we heard someone yoo-hoo, and Banty said the girls had just come and had went into the house, so we all skun out into the alley and went down to the dam, and the pond was full and there wasn't anyone anywhere so we dasted one another to go in, and we all went in but Hopper, and we were having a good time when he yelled, and when we looked where he was pointing his crutch a policeman was coming down the hill as fast as he could straddle, so we all climb out on the dam and grabbed our clothes and skun out and up the railroad embankment, and was running along the track when the passenger whistled and I didn't know till it had got past if we had all got off the track or not. But we had. I was certainly glad of that. The policeman chassted us quite a ways before we could put on our clothes, and then we went out and through the pasture and then we went back to the vacant lot and got the cows and took them out. We was almost late for Sunday school. I took care of Annabelle Lee in the afternoon whilst all the grown ups slept.

Today was Monday. And my grandfather had been out to Rocky River when I got home from school, and he was setting on the step by the back door when I got home, and there was the biggest catfish I ever saw hanging by the side of the door. He said it weighed 136 pounds and he found my hook in its mouth. Gee!

Love's Reawakening

A Wife's Triumph Over Jealousy

BY ADELE GARRISON

Lillian Shares Madge's Uneasiness

I MUST not let Helena Brixton see the panic I had experienced when I saw Charles Owen among the guests at Mary's party. That was the thought which steadied me as she followed my eyes to the door through which her husband's half borther had just gone with Dicky and the college students.

"Didn't Charlie come over to speak to you?" she asked concernedly. "He usually is so punctilious."

"I fancy Mr Graham hurried him over into the other apartment," I said, forcing a smile. "It is almost the dinner hour we named, and my husband, like most men, is getting uneasy."

"Aren't they all alike?" She laughed comfortably, and Lillian, who, I knew, shared my uneasiness concerning Charles Owen, put a quick imperative query.

What Prompted Owen?

"You didn't expect your brother-in-law to be here, did you, Helena?"

Mrs. Brixton widened her eyes apprehensively.

"No, I didn't," she answered. "That is, he didn't say positively he couldn't be back, but he was pretty sure. Does it make any difference in your plans? I wouldn't have brought him if I had—"

"Don't talk nonsense!" Lillian adjured her affectionately. "Madge is too experienced a hostess not to have provided an extra place. Besides, we expected him, anyway. Don't you remember, you said he might be here? That was enough for Madge."

As I smilingly confirmed Lillian's dictum; I thanked my particular little joss that Philip Veritzen was the type of host who provided for emergencies, and that he had one or two more theater tickets in reserve if our plans should be changed. But it was not the social adjustment which was bothering me. That was an easy thing. But I could not rid my mind of the distrust—amounting to fear—which I felt every time I saw or heard of the spectacular adventurer who was Samuel Brixton's half brother. I knew, too, that the information given us by Prince Georges as to Owen's connection under a Greek name with the secret society which had tried to assassinate him, was not at the real root of my fear of the man. If I had had no other cause to distrust him, I think I should have shrugged my shoulders with the philosophical reflection that no one could understand foreign intrigues and conspiracies anyway—or determine the right of them. But I had reason to fear—or so I imagined—that this man and his half brother Samuel Brixton, former friend and business associate of Marion's dead father—were concocting some unsavory financial scheme behind the ostensible offer of reparation which they had made upon their first visit to the farm, and which Lillian and I had declined to have Marion consider until she should become of age. I had been worried more than I had let Lillian see over my discovery that Mr. Owen had escorted his niece Carolyn, and Marion down from their school without Lillian's knowing anything about it beforehand. . . . and by my discovery that Marion apparently admired the man as much as did Carolyn.

I had warned Marion against him, and she apparently had accepted the warning. But I know schoolgirl psychology—or ought to with my long experience in teaching—and I was not so sure that when her emotional remorse at having deceived her mother about the trip to town should have evaporated, she would discount my warning as due to prejudice and accept Carolyn's valuation of her beloved "uncle" instead.

That Owen in reality, was no more Carolyn's uncle than he was Marion's made no difference in the hero worship which was patently Carolyn's for the man. Of course I realized that here was a natural feeling and one not to be combated, because of the fact that her stepfather, Samuel Brixton, Owen's half brother, had been a real and wonderful father to her and to Ronald ever since her mother's marriage to him when she was a baby. To Carolyn her "dad and her "uncle" were as real as to any girl possessing blood relatives bearing those titles, and even if I wished to do so, I could not destroy her faith in them.

Madge Is Worried

There was nothing to do, however, but to accept the situation, and keep my eyes as far open as I could. But I could not forbear one fear prompted question, although I couched it in terms which I was sure would not disturb Helena Brixton.

"I trust this change of plans means that we shall be able to see something of Mr. Owen during the Christmas holidays in the country," I said with an interrogative inflection.

Her answer was prompt and smothered my fears for the time being.

"Oh, no, he's going to join Sam tomorrow. I believe Sam expected him yesterday, but Charles had to stay over to attend to some important business of his own."

I was glad that the door opened just then, and the room was suddenly full of men, young and old, with Harry Underwood shepherding the masculine guests. It gave me something else to think about than the futile but troublesome and unanswerable query as to the "business" which could call family loving Samuel Brixton away from his home at Christmas time.

What We Saw

THE Toledo team presented a neat appearance as it came on the field, resplendent in scarlet and gray uniforms. Although the colors were similar to those of Harding the players were easily distinguishable. . . .

When Toledo's crimson horde flashed onto the field prior to the game and again at the half it looked about like the vast array of Ohio State athletes that grace the sidelines at the home games of the university. There were more than half a hundred in uniform.

ABOUT 2,000 persons were in the stands to see the teams battle. Of these probably 1,950 were from Toledo.

• • •

Harding will do well to receive a visiting team in the courteous manner in which Toledo received them. The "Hello Marion," preceding the game was enough to make any team feel at home.

• • •

DESALLE, Toledo quarterback, contributed several neat pieces of broken field running during the game. The way tacklers slide off him is enough to bring joy to the heart of any coach.

Harding rooters came through with a couple of high school yells that gave ample proof of their presence at the game.

RELIEVING Eric Williams at the center post late in the game "Beau" Guthrie turned in what was probably the best exhibition of football made by any second string player. Guthrie was in the midst of most of the plays and his passes from the pivot post were if anything slightly more accurate than those of the starting center.

Coach Bohyer expressed himself as satisfied with the fight put up by his proteges. Although sorry that his team did not cross the opponent's goal line Bohyer believes the rough spots of the lineup may be largely ironed out this week and that Harding will give a good account of itself when Galion is met here Saturday.

• • •

ALTHOUGH plainly outclassed by the Toledo team Saturday Harding should not be downcast about the chances for victories in the coming league games. It is our opinion that Toledo would have beaten any N. C. O. outfit with ease Saturday. Central executed its plays with near perfect timing and although mistakes were made they were few and far between.

• • •

The chief fault of the locals apparently was in its failure to tackle low and hard and to block opposing defensive men. A week of practice should correct these to a large extent and if it does Harding will enter the game with Galion on an even basis. The initial defeat should not call for any disparaging remarks concerning the team from any quarter. The eleven worked hard and was fairly beaten. We're going to back them until they convincingly demonstrate they do not have sufficient desire to win to fight from start to finish and nothing like that is in evidence at the present time. CENTRAL SWAMPS HARDING 31-0

LOCALS OUTCLASSED IN OPENING BATTLE; CLAY, MORGAN STAR

Presidents Fight Hard, but Fail To Stop Superior Toledo Offense.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

With its defense wrecked by a pair of shifty backs and in the persons of DeSalle and Schmidtbauer and its offense smothered before getting fairly under way due to the inability of the local forward wall to cope with an older and more experienced Toledo line, Harding High's football aggregation was battered hither and yon over the Toledo Central gridiron Saturday while the upstate's were piling up an impressive total of 31 points to none for the Marion team. The Sacksteder coached team outclassed the Harding eleven from start to finish.

A most brilliant work of left tackle Clay on defense and quarterback Dick Morgan on offense is all that saved the locals from an even worse beating. Clay, while some times inclined to tackle entirely too high turned in the best exhibition of defensive football on the field. Given some improved interference and Morgan would have clicked off some long gains for the locals. He played a nice game but frequently was forced to contend with opposing linemen breaking through to tackle him before he could get as far as the line of scrimmage.

Off With a Bang

Harding was fighting with its back to the wall within a minute after Smith kicked off to start the game. Toledo reeled off two plays for a first down and repeated again for another to place the ball within striking distance of the goal. Schmidtbauer crashed through right tackle to mark up the first touchdown. The place kick for extra point was wide.

Before the first quarter had ended Central had pounded its way through the Marion line from midfield to chalk up another six pointer and add a point on a place kick by Hipp. Bush contributed the only run of any length for Marion in the first stanza. He took the pigskin from the 30 to the 45 yard line just before the quarter ended.

Harding Tightens

Harding's defense tightened slightly in the second quarter and Toledo did not turn in any substantial gains. The second string lineup of Toledo took the field before the middle of the period.

With the regulars back in the harness at the start of the second half Toledo again took the offensive. A succession of line plays interspersed with a few perfectly executed lateral passes that left the opposition wondering where the ball was going next netted another score to the winners, running the total to 19 at the end of the third period. Morgan's failure to hold a punt gave Toledo the ball on Harding's nine yard line and put them in a position to score their third marker.

A blocked punt turned into a touchdown on the same play, gave Toledo another six points in the the fourth period with the final counter coming on a series of line plays that finished up with Jenson carrying the ball across to give the winners 31 points.

BOSTON GOB FAVORED TO DEFEAT CAMPOLO

Weight Advantage of Argentine Fighter To Aid Him in Battle.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—Jack Sharkey, Boston sailorman, hopes to take apart Victorio Campolo Thursday night and see what makes him tick.

The giant Argentine heavyweight is the one big question mark among heavyweights. The bouts he has fought so far in this country have failed to afford the experts with a satisfactory indication as to his prowess but his match with Sharkey at the Yankee stadium should decide his status once and for all.

With nothing in particular at stake, Sharkey may be depended upon to fight one of his good battles and if he does, Campolo may go the way of Wills, Delaney and Loughran, all of whom found Sharkey entirely too tough, and ready. Sharkey will give away gobs of weight, height and reach to the South American but nevertheless looks like a good 2 to 1 shot to win.

Colonels Blank Indians 10-0 in Finale; Columbus Divides.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 22—Louisville, flag winners of the association, yesterday stood behind pitcher Johnny Marcum and shut out the Indians 11 to 0 to close the baseball season.

The pitcher in four times at the bat connected with three hits including a triple.

Kansas City and St. Paul split a double header, the Saints winning the first 5 to 4 and the Blues the second 4 to 2.

Running up big winning scores, the Senators and Mudhens divided a double header, Columbus taking the first 11 to 7 and Toledo smashing out a 15 to 2 win in the second.

Minneapolis won from Milwaukee 12 to 8 by staging a five run rally in the eighth. Danny Bloxsom cracked out his twenty-ninth home run.

BRUINS WIN TO STAY IN CHASE FOR FLAG IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

Cards Favored To Retain Lead Despite Efforts of Chicago.

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Odds in favor of St. Louis capturing the flag are lengthening. The Cards were idle yesterday.

Brooklyn's Robins dropped their fifth straight game. The New York Giants lost everything but a mathematical chance of tying the league leaders as they divided a doubleheader with Cincinnati. Chicago regained half a game and took a clear hold on second place by beating the Boston Braves, 4 to 2.

A home run by Gabby Hartnett with Cliff Heathcote on base was required to win for Chicago as Pat Malone and Ben Cantwell pitched an even battle. The standing today was as follows:

Club	W	L	Pct.	GB	TP
St. Louis	87	61	.588	...	6
Chicago	85	64	.571	2½	5
Brooklyn	84	65	.564	3½	5
New York	84	67	.556	4½	3

Brooklyn Drops Fifth

Pittsburgh required two innings to ruin Brooklyn's hopes with a 7 to 6 victory. Trailing 3-0 after the first two innings, the Pirates assaulted Watson Clark for four home runs in the third and drove him from the mound with three more in the fourth. Luque and Phelps stopped the Pirates, but the Robins could not make enough headway against Ervin Brame's hurling to overcome that lead.

The Giants pulled out a neat 6 to 4 triumph over Cincinnati in the first half of their double bill but had one bad inning in the second and lost 7 to 6.

The American league turned itself into something like a testing ground for new material. St. Louis gave the greatest display of new talent as they split a twin card with the champion Philadelphia Athletics. Five youngsters helped the Browns win an 8 to 4 decision. They failed to keep the pace in the second game as the A's, with four of their reserves in action, clouted Sammy Gray and his two successors for 17 hits to gain a 10 to 4 triumph. Goose Goslin hit two homers for the Browns.

Rookies Take Stage

The New Yorkers tossed 21 players into the fray against Chicago's young White Sox, who retained a chance to tie St. Louis for sixth place by slamming out a 15 to 7 triumph.

With the veteran Jac Russell pitching against Willis Hudlin and Wesley Ferrell, the last-place Boston Red Sox slammed out five runs in the tenth to defeat Cleveland, 9 to 4. Irvin Hadley and Earl Whitehill, held the center of the stage at Detroit where the Tigers scored a 4-3 ten inning triumph over Washington as Spencer overthrew third trying to nip Johnson in a double steal.

Jones Starts Today in Quest for Fourth Title

By International News Service

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. Sept. 22—Fourteen years ago, Bobby Jones, the boy, played Merion in his first National amateur golf championship at an age when most boys of 14 are finishing their last year of the so-called grammar grades. The reporters made quite a point of the fact that he wore knickerbockers. The reporters of that distant day were an ingenious lot. They seemed to think that knickerbockers were the badge of extreme youth.

Six years ago, Robert J. Jones, Jr., the man, won his first National amateur championship at Merion, achieving an honor that many, in their innocence, had come to believe was beyond him.

Today, Robert T. Jones, Jr., the veteran of 12 major championships in which the title has been his, will seek the goal of his heart's desire on the course that has meant so much to him in the past. Today Robert T. Jones, Jr., the master champion of them all, will go after his fourth major championship of the year, a miracle to anybody else, but just a commonplace to the genius that is Jones.

170 To Start

He will be one of a field of 170 starters in the qualifying round of the National amateur championship today, meaning that Jones will be one starter and the 169 others will be just so many good golfers trying to top a great one from doing what no other man in all the history of the world has done. It seems needless to add that a Jones victory, if accomplished, will constitute a record for competitive golf since the beginning of time.

For men have played golf back through the centuries, yet none could do what Jones has done this year. At the outset, he won the British amateur championship for the first time in his life; then he won the British open championship for the third time in his life; finally he won the American open championship for the fourth time in his life.

So he stands today on the threshold of a miracle and all the world is standing with him, praying the same prayers that he will pray for the victory that he craves.

Champ to Play

Here are the men who are most likely to dispute, if not nullify altogether, his progress toward the goal:

Harrison Johnston, the 1929 champion; Dr. O. F. Willing, the 1929 runner up; Johnny Goodman, the man who beat Jones last year in the first round at Del Monte, thus creating a new dynasty after Jones had won in 1924, 1925, 1927 and 1928; Cyril Tolley, twice a British champion and who, like Johnston, succumbed to Jones only after a great fight in the last British amateur event; George Voight, who had Jones two down at the fourteenth hole in the same championship; George von Elm, who beat Jones out of the 1926 championship and perhaps all the more dangerous for the fact that he has announced his retirement from competition at the close of this tournament; Francis Ouimet, Chick Evans, Has Marston, Jesse Guilford and Jesse Sweetser, exchampions all.

Deere Cady and Paul Walker of Chicago each made a hole in one in a foursome at Green Lake, Wisconsin.

MAY LEAVE CUBS

Unconfirmed reports today indicate that Fighting Joe McCarthy, manager of the 1929 National league champions may be dethroned. Rogers Hornsby is slated to take his post at Chicago while McCarthy will replace Bob Shawkey at the helm of the New York Yanks according to Associated Press dispatches today.

ARMOUR WRECKS PAR TO WIN GOLF TITLE

Finishes St. Louis Open 12 Strokes Better Than Par; Hagen Next.

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 22—Proponents for a more drastic par had another example for their cause today as Tommy Armour, the great iron stylist from Detroit, pocketed first prize money in the $10,000 St. Louis Open golf championship.

Leading an even more spectacular brigade of par busters than has ripped up any course this year, the Black Scot posted an astonishing total of 276, and even dozen strokes under par to win the championship. Two strokes behind him ranked Walter Hagen, still seeking an elusive 1930 championship, while the rest of the leaders had a general all around high hat opinion of old man par.

Par for the championship on Sunset Hill Country club course stands at 72, perhaps two strokes higher than it should be. Yet in the four 18-hole rounds, 20 players broke 70 while four other ripped up the course with brilliant 66's or six strokes under par. Seventy-one's and par 72's were so numerous that they failed to elicit more than a yawn out of the gallery.

Horton Smith of New York, Al Espinosa and Joe Kirkwood of Chicago finished third with 281 totals, seven shots under par.

M'CARTHY MAY BE DEPOSED AS LEADER OF CHICAGO BRUINS

Cub Officials Refuse To Affirm Report of Manager's Dismissal.

By International News Service

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—Joe McCarthy, for the past five years manager of the Chicago Bruins, will pilot the Yankees in 1931, and Rogers Hornsby, stormy petrel and "mystery man" of the National league, will direct the destinies of the Chicago team.

That, at least, was the opinion today of those in touch with baseball here and in Chicago and it is substantiated in a measure by the attitude expressed by officials of the Chicago club. As late as last Saturday President Veeck of the Cubs declared that "McCarthy's future with the Chicago club has not been determined."

According to McCarthy's friends, the Bruin pilot has decided to resign his post, and will do so as soon as the Cubs complete their season. The three-year contract under which he is operating will expire this year.

Announcement Soon

McCarthy is expected to make a definite announcement as soon as he has conferred with Veeck, and William Wrigley, owner of the team, upon return of the Bruins to the windy city Thursday. To date he has refused to discuss his position and it is only through his intimates that his dissatisfaction with conditions at Chicago has been learned.

None of the officials of the New York club would confirm the report that McCarthy would succeed Bob Shawkey at the Yankee stadium, but it is pointed out that they are in no position to issue a statement at this time.

McCarthy is still under contract to the Chicago club.

Charge Interference

It is understood friction developed soon after the purchase of Rogers Hornsby from the Boston club in the winter of 1928-1929.

The complete collapse of the Bruins in the world series last fall is said to have further widened the breach between McCarthy and the front office. It is charged that there was interference with his direction of the team, and that among other things Ray Schalk was appointed to the coaching staff without McCarthy's approval.

Individuals who will have more or less to say about what Joe McCarthy will do next season refuse to admit he is through with the Cubs or that he will manage the Yankees next season.

Said McCarthy in Boston:

"Up to now I have had no trouble with any official of the Cubs. And neither have I fought with Hornsby. All the players are working hard to win a second pennant."

William Wrigley, owner of the Cubs:

"The story is based on pure imagination."

NEWS FROM GRID CAMPS

By International News Service

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—Larry Cadogan, first string back, is ill and Coach Lou Little may be without his services Saturday when Columbia opens its season against Middlebury here. Joe Stanczyk, veteran back, out with an injured leg, was expected to resume practice this week.

NEW HAVEN—Long and intensive drills started today for Yale in preparing for the Elis' opening game here next Saturday against Maine.

CHICAGO — Continued double practices with heavier workouts on the program were scheduled for the University of Chicago eleven today. Chicago's backfield has shown a power that is to be reckoned with although the line is admittedly weak.

EVANSTON, Ill.—Northwestern's coaches set to work today to correct errors and weaknesses which were demonstrated in Saturday's game with the freshmen. Too much fumbling and weakness in blocking and tackling caught the coaches' attention.

• • •

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Michigan's squad opened its final week of preparation today for the 1930 football season. Saturday's scrimmage showed the possibility of stressing a diversified attack consisting both of lateral and forward passing.

1930 Grid Rule Explanations

SATURDAY ANSWERS

1. A fair catch is illegal when a kicked ball from scrimmage does not pass over the line of scrimmage.

2. The suspension of a player may not be declined.

3 The member of a team signalling for a fair catch may run with the ball if he fumbles and then recovers.

4. An opponent may not run with an opponents' fumbled fair catch. It is dead at the spot of recovery.

5. A free kick may be recovered by the kicking side. It is dead at the spot of recovery.

QUESTIONS

1. May a player about to throw a forward pass intentionally ground his throw if he sees it will be intercepted?

2. May a player who has left the game at any point be permitted to re-enter the game?

3. Is the offensive team allowed to have any men in motion before the ball is passed from center signifying start of scrimmage?

4. May an offensive player have personal contact with an eligible receiver of a forward pass in an effort to prevent said eligible receiver from catching a pass?

5. What players are eligible to receive a forward pass?

REVISED SCHEDULE OF PLAY FOR TENNIS MATCHES OF WEEK

Tournament To Be Complete Next Sunday; To Play During Week.

Play in the Shovel-Star tennis tournament progressed to such a extent over the week-end that it will be possible to conclude both the doubles and singles play by the end of this week. Although previously announced that there would be no matches played during the week several matches have been set for play on week nights. With the exception of the finals matches all play will be for best two of three sets. Play will start at 5:30 p. m. sharp.

The complete schedule of play for the remaining matches follows:

Today

Penry vs. Jones.

Wednesday

Wolfinger-Jones vs. Herr and Gilmore No. 1; Thompson-Dulin vs. Penry-Yazel on No. 2; Gilmore-Long vs. Siefert-Cunningham on No. 3. This match will be played as scheduled unless Gilmore and Long demand a forfeit because of the failure of Siefert to show up Sunday. No forfeit has been given as it has not been requested. The two teams should decide this for themselves but score must be posted on the score card at the Shovel court and in the Star office before Wednesday.

Thursday

Doubles semi-finals. Players who are to take part in these will be Stair and Cheney and the winner of the doubles matches set for earlier in the week.

Saturday 2 p. m.

Yazel vs. Long, Wolfinger vs. Winner of Penry-Jones match.

Sunday 2:00 p. m.

Singles finals. Balance of doubles matches.

Sunday 9:00 a. m.

Doubles finals.

Matches played over the week end resulted in victories for the following: Penry-Yazel over Smith-Bartram; White over Cunningham-Long over Stair; Penry over Lindsey; Yazel over White; Wolfinger over Thompson; Her-Gill over Lindsey-Lindsey; Stair-Cheney over Evert-Melvin. The Siefert-Cunningham vs. Gilmore-Long match is not reported.

The latest wrinkle in fires in Marion was unfolded Saturday night when youths in the neighborhood of Congress and Uncapher streets built a fire under a tree. The tree promptly began to blaze and efforts of company No. 2 were needed to extinguish the blaze.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

The week-end brought little if any change in Marion market circles. Prices remained unchanged, although there were several variations in the supply of certain items.

Grapefruit is arriving in quantities now and will be offered in practically every grocery store in the city before the end of the week. This is the first of the fall season grapefruit. The price is 15 and 20 cents.

Corn is still coming in fairly plentifully, although its season is rapidly drawing to a close. Sweet-corn is becoming tougher, and in a few days will be off the market for this season.

WHEAT PRICES LOWER TODAY

Lack of Rain in Argentina Main Factor in Decline.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 22 — With a thorough investigation scheduled to begin this afternoon into alleged sabotage methods of Russian government grain dealers here, wheat values averaged lower early today. The main immediate market factors were reports of rain in Argentina, where absence of moisture has been arousing anxiety over prospective crop damage. Nearly 2,000,000 bushels increase of the amount of wheat on ocean passage was also noted. Starting unchanged to ⅜c off, wheat afterward rallied, but then sagged all around to sell below Saturday's finish. Corn started ⅛@¾ down, and subsequently held near to the initial range.

Chicago wheat trades gave special attention to British advices current today that Russia undoubtedly intends to ship out big quantities of wheat this year, and is chartering vessels on a heavy scale, with the cargoes being exported unsold. It was added in this connection that Russia's paramount need is money, and that her most realizable asset is the products of her soil. A further assertion was that the measure undertaken by Russia are apparently without regard to the welfare of her population, but that Russia has peculiar ways and means of minimizing her home difficulties, and that domestic requirements take only a secondary place in the evident program.

After early downturns, however, which carried Chicago wheat off to a new low price record, May 90⅝c, the market here responded quickly to an unlooked for jump in quotations at Liverpool. The sudden rise of wheat values abroad was in the face of reports that Russia was continuing to offer good wheat in large quantities at 10c a bushel under the current price of North American wheat, meanwhile, the corn market here sympathized with temporary wheat weakness, and dropped to a discount under under wheat for the first time in several weeks. Oats swayed with wheat and corn.

Provisions reflected declines in the value of hogs.

BRICKER-LAWRENCE RITES SOLEMNIZED

Pretty Home Wedding Unites Gladys Bricker and Son of Local Woman.

Special To The Star

GREEN CAMP, Sept. 22—One of the loveliest weddings of the fall season was solemnized here at 8 o'clock Sunday morning when Miss Gladys Bricker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bricker, became the bride of Charles Lawrence, son of Mrs. Frank Lawrence of Pleasant street in Marion.

The single ring service was read by Rev. Gradwohl, pastor of the Reformed church near here, at the home of the bride's parents. Fall flowers of various colors formed the altar for the ceremony and were used as decorations throughout the house.

"At Dawning" and the "Wedding March" from "Lohengrin" were played by Mrs. Helen Howison as the bridal party marched down the stairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lawrence, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom, were their attendants.

A brown and tan crepe dress, fashioned in tunic style, with accessories to match was worn by the bride while her attendant wore a wine colored flat crepe dress. The bridegroom was dressed in a dark blue business suit.

The bride's color scheme of yellow and white was carried out at the three-course wedding breakfast served to 32 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence left Sunday for Chicago where they will make their home. Mr. Lawrence is employed by the Western Electric Co. Mrs. Lawrence wore for traveling a wine and tan knitted suit. She is a graduate of Green Camp High school in the class of 1928. The bridegroom was graduated the same year from Waldo High school.

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lawrence of Chicago, Miss Eula Bricker of Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. Gale Shoots of Waldo, Miss Kathleen Bricker of Agosta, Miss Helen Brucker of Akron, Miss Thelma Watkins of Richwood and Mrs. Edward Meely of LaRue.

mony Mrs. Williamson played "Love's Old Sweet Song," and accompanied Mrs. Grace Yocom who sang "I Love You Truly" by Carrie Jacobs Bond and "Oh, Promise Me" by DeKoven. Mrs. Williamson played the "Wedding March" from Lohengrin for the processional and Mendelssohns' "Wedding March" for the recessional.

The bride wore a gown of shell pink chiffon made with a tight fitting bodice and the skirt fell in a long uneven hemline. With this she wore a headband of gold leaves and white kid jumps with satin bows. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls and her flowers were an arm bouquet of white roses. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. L. J. Black who wore a frock of orchid flat crepe made with a tight bodice and the long skirt was trimmed in maline and silver. She wore a rhinestone headband and a strand of pearls, the gift of the bride. L. J. Black, brother-in-law of the bride, attended Rev. Buzzard as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception for about 60 guests was held at the home of the Mr. and Mrs. Black on the Prospect pike. Later Rev. and Mrs. Buzzard left for Cleveland where they will reside while attending Cleveland Bible Institute. Both will take up their senior work Oct. 1. For traveling the bride wore a frock of poudre blue and a black velvet hat with accessories to match. Mrs. Buzzard will complete her study of music at the institute.

Rev. Buzzard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Buzzard of Willard and is a graduate of the Willard High school, class of 1924 and recently was granted his license in the East Ohio conference of the United Brethren church.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were B. P. Buzzard of Willard, Miss Lillian Parker, Miss Harriet White, Mrs. Robert Alles and Paul Gettig of Warren, Miss Gladys Maberry and Howard Thompson of Cleveland, Joseph Nickers, Ralph Armstrong and Miss Hazel Dilday of Columbus, Rev. and Mrs. L. J. Hopper and granddaughter Darlene of Mansfield.

College Student of Bucyrus Electrocuted at Cincinna

PASSES AWAY IN HOSPITAL

Frederick Schnabel, 20; Fatally Shocked While Painting Wire Guards

BUCYRUS, Sept. 22—Frederick Schnabel, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Schnabel of 909 South Rogers street, died at Good Samaritan hospital at Cincinnati Sunday afternoon after touching a high voltage wire while working at the Union Gas & Electric Co. where he was employed while attending the University of Cincinnati.

He attended Bucyrus public schools and was graduated from Bucyrus High school with the class of 1928. He was prominent in school activities and was a member of the High School band during the entire fours years in high school. He was associated with the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity and of Kappa Kappa Psi, a band fraternity, at Cincinnati. He was a member of the De Molay lodge of Bucyrus and of the Good Hope Lutheran church.

AUTO SKIDS

Two Escape Injury Mishap on Upper Sandusky Road.

Two men narrowly escaped serious injury Sunday morning when the Ford coupe in which they were riding skidded on loose gravel on the hem of the Upper Sandusky road just north of the Ohio hatchery.

Clark Burton, a Zanesville resident who had been working in Michigan, was driving the coupe enroute to his home. The car skidded into the ditch on a curve, ending its plunge against a tree. The car was badly damaged but neither Burton nor his companion was injured.

The car was towed to the McDaniel Motor Co. here for repairs.

HUNTER FINED

Floyd Davis Charged With Trespassing by Farmer.

Floyd Davis, 39, of Fountain street, was fined $5 for trespassing when he pleaded guilty to the charge in municipal court Saturday. The charge was brought against him by A. D. Mitchell, of west of Marion.

Mitchell claimed Davis flourished his shotgun when ordered off the farm. He said he grappled with Davis, striking him and taking the gun from him.

Davis is under $50 bond to appear in municipal court Wednesday to face an assault charge brought Hazel Shuster. Davis pleaded not guilty to the charge when arraigned Saturday.

City Council To Get New Gas Proposal Tonight

Company Officials Expected To Submit New Rate Ordinance to Officials; Propose Construction of $125,000 Green Camp Line to Marion.

Consideration of a new gas rate ordinance, slightly different than any before submitted by the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., loomed today as the highlight of a city council meeting tonight. The ordinance will be submitted to council as a whole by gas company officials, without a recommendation of the franchise and ordinance committee.

The proposal, in brief, calls for the passage of a seven-year ordinance of $1 for the first 500 cubic feet of gas and 60 cents a thousand feet for all over 500 for a period of six years, the charge for the first 500 feet increasing to $1.50 the last year. An alternative proposal is $1 for the first 500 for seven years, with an increase to $1.50 the last three years on a 10 year rate ordinance, with all gas over 500 feet selling at 60 cents a thousand.

Passage of the ordinance, to become effective when a new $125,000 main line to Green Camp is completed, is sought by the gas company. The gas company has been seeking a higher rate here for several years, to finance the construction of this line, which it claims is necessary to supply the city with gas in winter months.

City officials thus far have refused to settle at terms of the gas company, on the theory that the state utilities commission will specify lower local rates when a six-year fight of Ohio cities against the Logan Gas Co. is settled. At present, the case is on appeal before the state supreme court where it was taken by the gas company to protest valuations fixed on company leaseholds by the commission.

The utilities commission, in correspondence with City Clerk Sylvester Larkin, has indicated it will fix rates here on the basis of the Logan Gas Co. case when the supreme court has acted on the appeal.

Although gas company officials claim settlement of the Logan case will not end Marion's gas troubles, city officials maintain that the rates fixed by the commission may be used as a basis for the settlement of a local rate. The Logan company has been acquired by the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. since the inception of the rate fight before the commission.

MARION TO SEND KNIGHTS TO MEET

Ohio Masonic Body To Hold Annual Conclave in Cleveland This Week.

Marion Commandery No. 36, Knights Templar will send several delegates to the eighty-eighth annual conclave of the Ohio Grand Commandery at Cleveland this week. The death of Ben F. Blake, a member of the Marion commandery, will decrease the size of the delegation that expected to attend Wednesday and participate in the grand parade. Mr. Blake's funeral will be Wednesday afternoon and he will be accorded a Knights Templar escort.

Ten thousand knights and an almost equal number of women began assembling in Cleveland today, according to a United Press report.

For three days they will endeavor to make this conclave the greatest event in Ohio Templar history. A succession of receptions, drills and entertainment have been arranged to be topped, Wednesday afternoon, by a grand parade.

Marching to the music of 50 bands, the Knights Templar, 9000 strong, uniformed and plumed, will pass in review before Grand Commander Robert L. Queisser of Cleveland and his associate officers of the Ohio Grand Commandery.

It is anticipated that Sir Knight Robert J. West of Toledo will be advanced to the position of grand commander, and that the city of Toledo will have the honor of entertaining the eighty-ninth annual conclave next year.

The first formal session will be held Wednesday morning when Sir Knight John B. Marshall, mayor of Cleveland, will voice the city's welcome.

2,500 Persons Visit Marion Port for Circus

Approximately 2,500 persons witnessed an air circus at Marion airport yesterday in charge of Chief Pilot Roy M. Day. The program of the afternoon included several contests, parachute jumps and passenger rides.

Rollie Thompson of Lima took first honors in the dead stick landing contest. A balloon bursting contest was won by H. Morris of Galion in a Waco plane. J. B. Purnell of Shelby gave an exhibition of stunt flying.

Two parachute jumps were made at the port. Six visiting planes participated in the circus.

OBITUARY

Wanda Marvell, daughter of John and Amy Fields Tway was born in Marion County, Ohio, May 17, 1930, and departed this life on August 29, 1930 at the age of 3 months and 12 days.

She quickly won our hearts and upon her we best bestowed our utmost in affection and love. Through her our hearts were drawn closer together until now they bleed as one. We loved her, but we do not feel that our love is lost, we love her still. Our lives have been blessed by her presence, although her stay was short with us.

Today we have a treasure in the Glory World where moth and rust cannot corrupt and which cannot be destroyed. In the Morning of the Resurrection Day we hope to again see her face to face. We can only put ourselves in the hands of the Heavenly Father and say, "thy will be done."

She leaves to mourn their loss her father and mother besides other relatives and friends.

She thought our goodnight kiss was given,
And like a lily her life did close;
Angels uncurtained their repose,
And the next waking dawned in heaven.*

2 BANDITS GET $40 FROM KENTON MAN

Armed Men Seize Clark Hayden at Home; Jump Fence To Escape.

Special To The Star

KENTON, Sept. 22—Clark Hayden, Kenton business man, was assaulted by two masked bandits late last night and robbed of more than $40.

The banditry occurred at the garage to the rear of his home on North Wayne street.

Parking his machine in the building and turning out the lights, Hayden started for the home a short distance away. Suddenly two men, with their faces covered with carefully arranged masks, appeared from out of the shadows and with drawn revolvers demanded Hayden to turn over his money.

"One of the men suddenly advanced and grabbing me about the neck with his arm dragged me to the rear of the garage where he continued to choke me until his companion rifled my pockets," Mr. Hayden told night police.

The two then jumped a fence and disappeared down an alley. It is believed that the two men were the same two who made a small purchase at the Hayden store a short time before the robbery.

ALERT GUARDS FOIL PROPOSED PEN BREAK

Convicts Caught with Improvised Weapons; General Riot Planned.

By The Associated Press

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 22—Col. Edward B. Stone, principal keeper of the state prison revealed today that plans for a general riot and outbreak at the prison during a ball game yesterday afternoon had been frustrated by guards.

Fifteen hundred convicts were lined against a wall at an unannounced moment by armed guards while other guards made a quick search.

Improvised blackjacks, knives, pieces of metal and money clattered to the ground along the rows of men who sought to rid themselves of evidence.

Fifteen men were found with razors and knives and some had coils of rope tied about their bodies, inside their clothing.

The men were placed in solitary confinement. Several convict barbers were found without their razors and also were placed in solitary confinement.

Knives and rope were found in sewer drains in many parts of the prison.

The knives and blackjacks had been made from lead.

After the search the men found without weapons were taken into the ball park where the game was held as scheduled. There was no disorder.

GALION—Mrs. Susan Helfrich, mother of Dr. Mart Helfrich of this city, remains in a weak condition at the Good Samaritan hospital here. She was brought to the hospital several days ago from Vermillion.

"Lazy" Said the Boss
"Acidity" Said the Doctor!
Charged with laziness— guilty simply of acidity! That's the situation with many men today. Always tired, have to pull themselves together for each and every task. They're branded as lazy and ambitionless when the real truth is that they're sick men—victims of acidity.
Excess acid, forming in the stomach causes acid-indigestion with gas, sourness and burning. It also sets up fermentation and putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal. This breeds poisons that sap our strength and vitality and so tax our nerves that we can't sleep soundly at night or work efficiently during the day.
Magnesia Oxoids developed in Germany by a famous, 100-year-old pharmaceutical house, correct acidity in the right way! Upon contact with the acid in the stomach, Magnesia Oxoids generate nascent, or active, oxygen. The "live" oxygen stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus, checks putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal and stimulates the activities of the intestinal walls which aids the natural movement of the bowels. All three effects are necessary to the true correction of acidity.
Make this Acidity Test
To ascertain just how "acid" you are, make this test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids at small cost from Bradley's Drug Store or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal and see how much better you feel—how much more soundly you sleep and how much more energy you have. If, after taking the contents of one bottle, you don't notice a decided improvement, return the bottle to the druggist and he will cheerfully refund your money.—Adv.

The Personal Element
PROFESSIONAL skill is not the only requirement of a funeral director. He must possess a kindly and sympathetic personality and so impress those he serves. Our service is more in the nature of the kindly assistance of helpful friends. We try to serve in a way that makes you feel that first of all we are your friends —friends upon whom you can depend to do everything possible to relieve the heavy burden of your loss.
